VOL. 37 No. 41 | Four Sections | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, August 22, 1992 | 60¢ Per Copy | $19.00 Per Year

Farmers had the opportunity to see and compare many different models of equipment this week at the annual Ag Progress Days exhibition at Rockspring. In the photo above, some of the more than $20 million worth of equipment is shown on display at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center. More than 500 acres of educational and commercial exhibits, tours, and machinery demonstrations were part of the show.

Thomas: We May Become Complacent

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — In an address at the government/industry luncheon at Ag Progress Days, Penn State President Joab Thomas said he fears that we have become complacent in regard to agriculture.

"We have been so successful (in food production) that I fear we may have become complacent at a very inappropriate time," Thomas said. "In the popular press we see questions about the value of agricultural research. Even in the decreased appropriations from state government, it reflects this kind of complacency with regard to the need for agricultural research."

Thomas noted the reduction in the percent of people in the world that are hungry. Where there is hunger, it is because of political reasons and not from lack of know-how in production agriculture."

While the percentage of people who are hungry is down, because of population increases, the number of hungry people remains constant.

"Additional land in production agriculture is a diminishing possibility to meet this demand," Thomas said. "The problem will have

DER Secretary Says Not Enough Nutrient Management Plans Written

ANDY ANDREWS

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — As many as 23,000 out of a total of 25,000 farms in the Susquehanna River valley may remain without some kind of nutrient management plan, according to an official with the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources (DER).

In the six years since the Chesapeake Bay Program has been in existence, only 600 farms have signed up with a DER program to reduce the flow of nutrients into the bay as part of the original bay agreement, according to Arthur A. Davis, state DER secretary. According to the DER secretary, if more plans aren't written, federal guidelines may be passed which would have severe and long-range impacts on the storage and application of nutrients on farms.

Davis spoke to about 80 ag industry representatives at the Ag Issues Forum at Kreider's Restaurant on Thursday.

In the six years a voluntary Bay nutrient reduction program by the DER has been in place, the department, according to Davis, has been dissatisified with the results. To meet the Bay program's 40 percent reduction goal in the coming decade, Davis said that at least half of the farms in the basin need to develop nutrient management plans "if we're going to meet the concerns not just of the Chesapeake Bay but for our own water quality concerns, our groundwater here," he said.

Nutrient reduction

Davis spoke about the issue of nutrient management during a recent meeting of the Chesapeake Bay Council. At the meeting, nutrient reduction and its importance took center stage.

Davis said that the House Bill 496 proposal for nutrient management planning, still being reviewed by the state Senate Ag Committee, is the best course of

New Holland To Close Mountville Plant

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — An estimated 200 people are to be laid off from Ford New Holland operations here because of an announced closing of its Mountville plant.

According to published reports in a Lancaster newspaper, Ford New Holland announced the layoffs and the plant closure on Monday as part of a major restructuring which has targeted the loss of about 400 corporate jobs, at least half of which are salaried positions.

The announcement also included the closing of the Belleville foundary and a possible 20-percent reduction in its North American work force.

A majority of the jobs are management-level, with early retirements and voluntary quittings expected to account for a portion of the terminations. The newspaper report said that employees

Trucklot buying interest was very light. Supplies of boneless skinless breasts for retail needs were at least adequate at most locations; however buyers were very cautious and brought in product for immediate needs only. Line run breasts were readily available, offered, and not cleared Further processors limited receipts of cutting stocks to standing commitments as they wait for the market to develop. Yellow skin leg quarters were fully adequate but a slight improvement was noted over early week. Trading was reported at lower prices. Other items were adequate and traded at steady prices.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

AUG. 24-30, 1992.

ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S DAY, AUGUST 24

A DAY TO REMEMBER AN APOSTLE

Bartholomew was one of the 12 apostles and is believed to have been flayed alive in Armenia in A D 44 for his faith His feast day is the infamous anniversary of the massacre in Paris and throughout France of thousands of Huguenots (Protestants) The Massacre began when the church bells tolled early in the morning on St. Bartholomew's Day, August 24, 1572 King Charles IX ordered the killings with the approval of his mother, Catherine de Médicis Up to 70,000 were eventually put to death This was also the day of the famous Bartholomew Fayre, held in Smithfield near London for over 700 years, until 1855 The fair became famous both for the merchandise it offered and for riotous drinking

If the 24th of August be bright and clear, Then hope for a prosperous autumn that year.

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Relief from insect bites or bee stings: Moisten the afflicted area and sprinkle with meat tenderizer.

EARTHWISE

Recycling plastic is not easy There are many types of plastic, so you need to contact your local recycling center to find out what can be recycled Plastic in soft drink bottles (PET) is the most recycled plastic It's used mostly for fiberfill that goes into sleeping bags and jackets The HDPE plastic that you find in milk jugs and detergent bottles is harder to recycle, so is LDPE, which is used in plastic bags and shrink wrap Some supermarkets do have bins for used grocery and produce bags, so don't throw them away

OLD-FASHIONED APPLE DESSERT

3 cups sliced apples
1-1/2 cups soft bread crumbs
1/3 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 cup melted butter
3/4 cup water

Serves 4-6 people.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

NORTHEAST: Sunny and very warm, then showers and turning seasonable

SOUTHEAST: Showers, heavy north, milder, clearing with some rain south, warmer.

MIDWEST: Clear and warm, some rain north, then sunny and hot with showers east

NORTHWEST: Sprinkles and cooler, hot with thunder showers in the mountains, then sunny and seasonable.

OPINION

Keep Downed Animals At Home

The fact that 75 percent of Pennsylvania's agricultural income comes from animal agriculture is only part of the reason farmers should be concerned about animal rights and animal welfare issues. Economics is only one of three main concerns. The other two issues are social acceptance and empathy for the animals.

Everyone should know that healthy animals living in good environments with freedom to excersise in uncrowded conditions produce better quality food and more of it. It doesn't make economic sense not to provide for the physical and instinctial needs of your farm animals.

And farmers must now live in a society that has a growing concern for animal welfare, food safety, and water use. This society is the farmer's customer. So the farmer needs to satisfy customer concerns as much as possible.

And while the society that is many generations removed from farming may now be able to understand, farmers do have a certain attachment to their animals. They do care for them emotionally.

That's why it doesn't help consumers to understand the farmer's cause when downed animals are sent to the stockyards and sale barns. While the numbers are few in comparison to the total number of animals involved it creates a situation where opponents of animal agriculture have a justifiable reason to promote their cause.

Right now, animal welfare groups are collecting video and still photographs of animals in stockyards and sale barns that show a very bad example. A push is on for national legislation to require every downed animal in stockyards to be humanely destroyed within a very short time.

While you could argue that photographs can be made to look bad by the angle or type of lense used, the fact remains that if these animals were not in the stockyards, the could not have been photographed in any way. The moral of this story is: don't send downed animals to market. Take the loss of one animal at home rather than create a situation that opponents of agriculture can use to destroy the livestock industry.

To Watch For Pinkeye

Penn State extension veterinarian Dr. Thomas Drake reminds us, as fly populations increase during the hot summer months, dairy and livestock farmers should watch for signs of pinkeye in cattle.

Flies readily transmit the bacteria that cause pinkeye. They pick up the bacteria by feeding near the eyes of infected cattle, especially in the fluid that runs from the eyes, then fly to other cows, spreading the bacteria. If left untreated, the cow could become blind in the infected eye.

Controlling flies is the key to preventing pinkeye in cattle. A variety of products such as fly-repelling ear tags, oils, screens, and back rubbers are available.

If you notice pinkeye symptoms in your herd, antibiotics are the best treatment. Contact your veterinarian for the best treatment program for your farm.

Drake also encourages producers to put patches over infected eyes. This helps the animal to recuperate more quickly by keeping the eye protected from painful sunlight, and the patch helps prevent flies from spreading pinkeye bacteria to healthy animals.

To Become Familiar With Lyme Disease

Lyme Disease is a relatively new tickborne disease.

The disease is carried by the dear tick. This tick is smaller than the common dog tick and is typically found in bushy vegetation approximately three feet from the ground.

The initial symptoms occur within one month of being bitten by an infected tick. The primary symptom is a red circular rash which develops at the site of the bite and expands over a period of weeks. However, not all infected people develop the rash.

Other symptoms may include headaches, fever, fatigue, and swollen glands within 2 to 10 days of exposure. Lyme disease responds quickly to treatment at this stage. If left untreated, the rash and symptoms will gradually go away.

However, months or years later, secondary symptoms such as migraine headaches, arthritis, dizziness, weakness, and memory loss may occur. At this stage the disease is much more difficult to treat.

Remember, ticks should be removed by grasping them at the head parts with tweezers and pulling them straight out. Using heat or chemical methods to remove the tick may cause it to regurgitate its stomach contents and increase the risk of infection.

To Salute The American Farmer

During the past 30 years, the American Farmer has increase productivity unequaled by any other industry. Corn yields now average 120 bushels per acre, an increase of over 100 percent since 1960.

Soybean yields have topped 40 bushels per acre, an increase of 40 percent during this same period of time. Wheat yields in the United States have neared 40 bushels per acre, an increase of nearly 60 percent.

The per-acre yield of crop production of all crops is up 58 percent since 1960.

The gains in animal agriculture are very similar. The greatest advances were in milk production, which has doubled, and poultry production, which has tripled since 1960.

Feather Prof's Footnote: "Do not follow where the path may lead — go instead where there is no path and leave a trail."

Farm Forum

Editor,

I am a member of the 4-H Sausage Stuffers Club. For my project this year I raised two pigs. My project is coming to a close and on Wednesday, September 2, at 7:00 p.m. at the Grange Fair Grounds I will be selling my pigs. I would appreciate any support that you would be able to give me.

Thank you.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

SATISFACTION, NOT PRIDE
August 23, 1992

Background Scripture:
2 Timothy 3:10 through 4:8.
Devotional Reading:
2 Corinthians 6:3-10.

At first glance, the writer of 2 Timothy seems to be rather lacking in humility: "Now you have observed my teaching, my conduct, my aim in life, my faith, my patience, my love, my steadfastness, my persecutions, my sufferings, what befell me at Antioch, at Iconium, and at Lystra.. yet from them all the Lord rescued me" (2 Tim 3:10) And once again· "I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith. Henceforth there is laid up for me the crown of righteousness..." (4:7,8).

Those two passages are filled with a lot of "my's" and "I's," and the tone seems rather self-congratulatory. I would feel rather embarrassed to say to someone, "Look what I have accomplished and try to be like me". Yet, the more I have pondered these words, the more I have realized that the writer of this epistle is not on an ego trip. He believes that he has fulfilled the tasks that God gave to him and he takes great satifaction in that knowledge. "Great satisfaction," but not pride. He is not so much pointing at himself as through himself. He knows his example is good because he emulated Jesus Christ. It is Christ whom he is exalting, not himself.

SATISFACTION, NOT PRIDE

What the writer of 2 Timothy is feeling is satisfaction, not pride. In his letter he has given all the praise and thanks to God for what has been happening through him. He is satisfied in feeling that he has accomplished what God expected of him. He faces the possibility of death with the sense of not having left anything undone. That he could say, "I have fought the good fight," was because Christ helped him to fight it. That he could say, "I have finished the race," was an acknowledgement that Christ helped him do so. Nor was this any less true in his claim to have "kept the faith". Yes, he has done all of these things... but by the help of God! And his assurance that "Hence-forth there is laid up for me the crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge will award to me on that day.. ," is dependent, not upon his merit, but Christ's faithfulness.

HONORS, PRIZES, AWARDS

Every once in a while I get a letter asking me to fill out a form giving biographical information I am asked to list my degrees of higher education, honors, prizes, awards, and special recognitions. Of course, the more one fills in on these lines, the more impressive the biography. But it occurs to me that, although it is of some satisfaction to list these items, none of them are even half so satisfying as the writer of 2 Timothy must have felt when he could write: "I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith".

Desirable as our lifetime trophies may be, they are not everlasting satisfactions. These are things that, like material possessions, we cannot take with us. They have been bestowed upon us by the world and are of importance only in this world. The only lasting satisfaction we can enjoy in both worlds is the knowledge that we have fulfilled the purpose for which God created us.

PUMP OUT PIT FAN

Many manure storage pits have been constructed without providing for ventilation of the pit, particularly in buildings constructed several years ago when pit storage was first popular

A non-ventilated pit results in a build-up of harmful, caustic gases, such as carbon dioxide, hydrogen sulfide, methane, ammonia and mercaptans

Hydrogen sulfide and carbon dioxide are heavier than air and, as the level of pit waste rises closer to the slats, the gases are forced closer to the animals

Results of inhaling these gases may be deep, fast breathing from CO^2. Hydrogen sulfide is one of the most toxic gases to animals and humans associated with liquid manure storage. This gas can cause severe irritation to the eyes and respiratory system and sometimes can result in death.

Kutztown Fair Holds First Mardi Gras

CONNIE LEINBACH
Berks Co. Correspondent

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — The Kutztown Fair concluded last week with the awarding of championship trophies in all the livestock divisions ,and a first-ever animal Mardi Gras.

Spectators wandered into the show ring in the early evening curious to see what kind of costumes would show up on the various animals registered for the show.

They saw "Catwoman" in the form of a Hampshire sheep named Stormy, led by "Batman," otherwise known as Jason Levan, 10, of Hamburg. "Catwoman" kept up a steady stream of bleats as Jason led her around the ring. He was the only entry for sheep, and also took reserve grand champion of the overall show.

Kelly Glaser of Limekiln dressed up her grey housecat in a cat-sized baseball cap and shirt. The wide-eyed cat, pawing at the cap, stayed still in her arms while she paraded with several other animals in the ring. Kelly won grand champion.

Leading his Holstein intermediate calf around the ring wasn't as easy for Brennan Johns of Bethel. The calf was not pleased with the array of baskets roped to her back to depict "Mexican Market Day," and she bucked and ran out of the ring a couple of times. The first time, Brennan held onto her halter and was dragged through the sawdust a few yards before he let go and dusted himself off.

"Now she's acting like a donk-

Stacey Dietrich, 12, of Germansville, Lehigh County, is proud of her grand champion of the Kutztown Fair, a 5-year-old Holstein, Lynnacres Weathervane Flower. The judge praised the cow's mammary system and noted her straight line and wide rump. Her sire was Turcree Odyssey Weathervane and her dam was Lynnacres Bell Flora.

DER Secretary Says Not Enough

action. Amendments to the bill are being considered.

"The present course has clearly not been sufficient, and time's running and we're not making the progress we need to make," said Davis. "I think you're going to have some kind of a mandatory program that will get these farmers to take the issue of nutrient management seriously."

According to Davis, farmers should be concerned about certain movements by the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to possibly implement countrywide water and nutrient management mandates. These mandates may take effect in the form of national pollution discharge and elimination system (NPDES) permits which determine when and exactly how "discharge" material, which manure could be considered, will be handled.

Farmers aren't factories

"I just don't want to see us get into that kind of a situation," he said. "(Farmers) aren't big factories, they're not discharging industrial waste. I just don't want to see us have to do it."

During a question-and-answer session, John Schwartz, Lancaster extension director, refuted claims that farmers, at least in the Lancaster County area, aren't writing nutrient management plans.

Schwartz said that in a recent survey he conducted, more than 1,500 farms in the county have implemented written nutrient management plans. Out of 3,400 livestock and poultry farms, he said, 45 percent of the farmers have implemented the plans.

The extension director said there are "more plans out there written than what people are giving agriculture credit for."

Misunderstandings

Many farmers, according to Davis, are reluctant to work with DER because of the many misunderstandings about what DER's role is.

"Regulations and regulators are rarely beloved," he said. "I understand that, it goes with the territory." However, DER is not "nine feet tall with one eye in the middle of its forehead, and look out," he said. "I'd like, to the extent that I can, dispel that idea."

For too long, DER has been viewed as the villain, and the farmer as the villain, according to several statements by representatives at the meeting — which does little to promote cooperation between the agencies and the farmers.

Davis said the whole issue of nutrient management is "galvanizing farmers here and elsewhere."

According to the DER secretary, there are many options available for farmers, including working with the conservation district.

"You either plan things the way you want them to happen or wait until they happen to you," he said. "I don't want to see them happen to us. And I think (H.B.) 496 is the best option available and a very fair one to deal with the questions."

Simple Estimations Can Save Money On Nutrients

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Nutrient management is a reality with or without legislation to mandate it — lenders are requiring it and zoning boards are requiring it.

But what those people are looking at isn't really nutrient management. They want liability management.

However, to the farmer, nutrient management is a tool to cut costs and make use of wastes.

To give a practical look into managing nutrients, Penn State University College of Agriculture's Ag Progress Days program included a tour on the subject, among the other offerings during the three-day event.

Carl Rohr, nutrient management specialist, said, "The key to making the best use of nutrients is management and luck."

According to Rohr, the practice of managing nutrients is not difficult, but depends on a number of factors beyond anyone's control — rain, drought, etc. — to always get the most efficient use out of nutrient applications.

However, with the unpredictable elements accounted for, there is much that can be done to minimize wasteful applications of nutrients, he said.

This was the third year that a nutrient management tour was offered at Ag Progress Days. This year's tour focused more on determining crop needs, yields, and sources of nutrients.

Carl Cassidy, with the nonprofit Pa. Crop Management, demonstrated crop yield estimates and how to use them to figure nutrient needs (other than water) and maximum yields.

Cassidy does work for more than 40 farms, doing the soil testing, yield testing, keeping crop records, etc. for the member farmers. He is paid from the dues paid in by members. Dues are based on acreage.

During the demonstration, Cassidy reviewed the procedure for estimating for corn silage, using a premeasured rope with increments of 30-inches, 36-inches, and 38-inches.

The rope is stretched out for a total length of 17-feet, 4-inches. This represents one-thousandth of an acre.

For estimating silage yield, the corn plants are cut and stacked parallel and then bundled with a (should be preweighed) rope. The bundle is weighed using a common milk scale.

Three to four random measurement-weights are made in the field.

The weight of the bundle is

Carl Cassidy shows a measuring rope that stretches out to 17-feet, 4-inches, which provides a simple tool for measuring one-thousandth of an acre of corn field.

ey," said Brennan's mom, who grabbed the halter to stop the calf. "We'll have to do something different for the next fair."

Despite his troubles, Brennan placed third overall.

Sarah Johnson, an alternate Berks County Dairy Queen, and her friend, Denise Hoch, placed fourth with their two Jersey calves in Hawaiian grass skirts.

Sarah and Denise also wore grass skirts over their shorts and walked around the show ring in bare feet.

When told she was taking quite a chance in her bare feet, Sarah replied that she hadn't stepped on anything "big."

Stacey Dietrich, who earlier had the grand champion Holstein in the show, and her friend Jennifer Rassler were the grand champions in the Mardi Gras. They also depicted a Batman entourage, with Stacey as Vicki Vale and Jennifer as the Joker. Their Holstein was costumed as The Penguin.

In the colored breeds portion of the dairy show on Wednesday, the winner of the champion Ayrshire once again was Jed Vail of Myerstown. Jed, a junior at Tulpehocken High School, also had the reserve grand champion Ayrshire.

Judge Ronald R. Daubert of Pine Grove liked the strength of this 5-year-old cow, Jed said.

The grand champion Brown Swiss was awarded to Randy Balthaser of Bernville for his 9-year-old cow, Gilda.

"She has a real heavy frame on her for her age," Randy said about the judge's preference for his animal.

Other grand champion trophy winners were as follows: Holstein, Stacey Dietrich of Germansville, Lehigh County; Guernsey, Daniel Hollenbach of Bernville; Jersey, Scott Youse, Oley; Milking Shorthorn, Jamie Yost of Boyertown; Dairy Showman, Steven Dietrich of Germansville, Lehigh County.

Dairy Fitter, Stacey Geist of Mertztown; Beef Fitter, Amy Eshelman of Shillington; Beef

Scott Youse of Oley holds his grand champion Jersey, Dairyland Topaz Comet, a 3-year-old. At last year's fair, she was the reserve grand champion. Her sire was Granclare ASM Topaz and her dam was Dairyland VSB Cosmos 13S.

Simple Estimations

multiplied by 1,000 to give the estimated pounds per acre and then divided by 2,000 to give the tonnage per acre.

That number is then multiplied by the number of acres which comprise the field. That gives the estimate yield.

A similarly-contrived method is used to estimate grain yield, with added steps for gathering the ears, weighing and then taking into account the dryness at storage (about 15.5 percent moisture).

The benefits of estimating crop yields are to not only see how much crop can be expected for better farm management, but to be able to realistically set yield goals and thus nutrient needs to reach those goals. Testing for yield goals must be preformed year after year to be of any value.

The practice is also beneficial if a producer wants to do variety checks.

Jeff Schmid, a nutrient managment specialist with DER's Bureau of Soil and Water Conservation, said he is involved with providing technical assistance to conservation districts and to look at cost sharing and has the primary goal of preventing water pollution.

He said a goal is to increase the awareness and use of the manure tests, but mostly so that farmers know what nutrients they are putting into the soil. From there they can add.

"You don't have to use book values," he said. "Book values can vary 100 percent" from what is actually in the manure to be applied.

Also, he said that the method of sample taking is as important as applying manure.

"If you spend $30 for a manure test, you want a good representative sample," he said, adding that it doesn't make sense to spend that much money and not really have a good idea of how much less or more of a commercial nutrient is needed.

Soil tests should be taken every three years, he said.

A soil test gives a base for existing nutrient levels, the manure test gives the additional amounts of nutrients which can be applied, plus the amount of starter fertilizer should be taken into account.

The amount of nutrients needed depends on the crop and expected yield.

Information on the specific nutrient needs of a projected crop yield are available.

To figure how much additional commercial fertilizer is to be needed, calculate the amount of available nutrients existing in the soil, add the manure and starter fertilizer amounts and the amount that should be side-dressed is that amount needed to equal the amount needed by the crops.

Also, to accurately predict how much nutrient value per acre is coming from manure applications, the spreader rate must be calibrated. It can be done with 10-foot by 10-foot plastic sheets that the spreader is driven over, at the normal application speed.

The amount of manure on the plastic is weighed. From testing the manure, the estimate nutrient value per weight is multiplied by the weight of the manure on the plastic and a usable value for manure nutrients can be gained.

According to the speakers, the advantages of using nutrient management tools and estimation tools is that maximum yield goals can be set and achieved, it makes the best use out of livestock byproducts, it is flexible and can be custom tailored to a wide variety of situations and it requires a small investment.

Ag Progress Highlights Conservation

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Conservation is once again a key word in landownership, as evidenced by several tours highlighted at the Penn State University 1992 Ag Progress Days held at Rockspring this week.

In addition to the main research tours, which primarily look at production agriculture — such as uses of varieties of plants for animal food, treatment for storage, nutrient content, etc. — there were several tours which keyed in on soil conservation and protection of water and wildlife habitat.

There is a difference between the current thrust of conservation education provided now as opposed to earlier environmental education.

In the past, landowners were either not offered any alternatives to certain practices, or the alternatives were not practical.

The emphasis then had been to restrict activities. Now it is to educate those who are active as to considerations which not only save soil, but improve land value and minimize the impact of those activities on neighboring acres.

The information is not limited to use by agriculture, and is also applied in non-agricultural construction.

Toward this end, there is much information coming foward from the university, the USDA, the Fish and Boating Commission, and the Game Commission.

While a number of regulations to minimize environmental damage caused by residential and commercial development have been in place for years, it is only within the past decade that meaningful enforcement has begun to take effect.

Because of public demands, there is a growing realization of value added to residential developments and other construction if it is seen as being environmentally safe and healthy, practical and economic.

Now some of that information is being tailored for agriculture.

Some of the information is rehacked, some of it refined and some new, but it all offers logical ways to arrive at a solution with allows multiple activities — in this case farming and conservation — to co-exist profitably.

For example, stream crossings and stream fencings are not new ideas. Stream crossings are nothing more than artificial fords and designs for them have existed for many, many years. The application for use as a cattle crossing has been considered for more than 20 years, probably longer.

But, with the public's understanding that the state's water supply has become increasingly unsafe for drinking and in some cases bathing, efforts are being taken through various fronts to push for enforcement of the state's clean water laws, which are an extension of the Pennsylvania Constitution.

In the past, public pressure was not strong enough to warrant effective enforcement or wide spread and meaningful education.

Now, for example, not only because of the number of droughts in recent years, but with more competition for land, recreational areas, and a large number of people forced to use bottled water, the public (rural and urban) sentiment has turned toward conservation.

For agriculturalists, a general conservation tour held Tuesday reviewed stream crossings, stream fencing for bank stabilization, field tiles, grass waterways, terracing, no-till, wetlands restoration and maintenance.

Tour guide was Wayne Ray, with the USDA Soil Conservation Service, who said that his agency has been doing a lot of work in conjunction with other state and federal agencies.

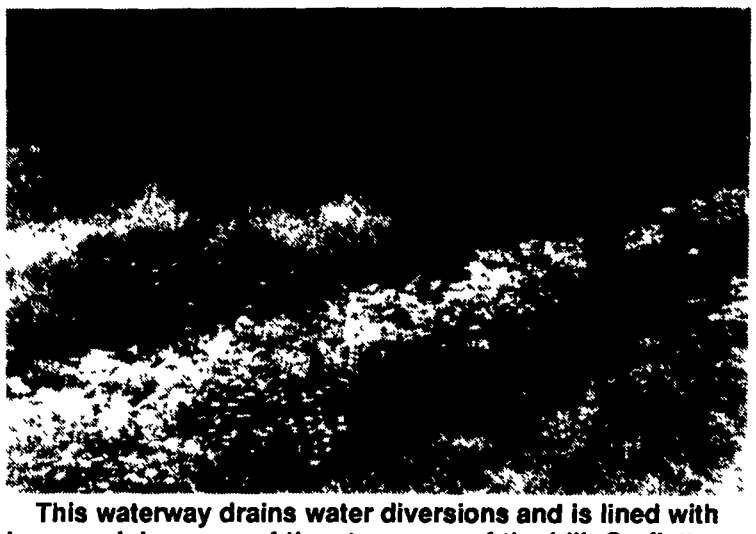
"Most (soil conservation) practices are done to control soil erosion on crop fields," he said, while outlining the use of crop terracing in a closed-end system.

The closed-end terrace has drainage, but not surface drainage. It is designed for clean-cut, tilled fields, which are mostly continuous grain fields, he said, because of the unprotected bare earth condition which occurs in the spring and fall.

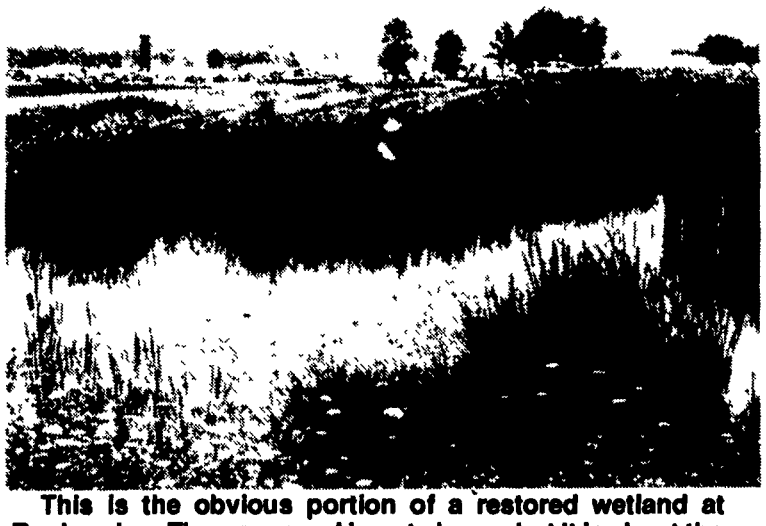
These terraces are spaced down

(Turn to Page A25)

Soil erosion prevention devices, such as this old tile strip on a terraced crop field at Rockspring, require some maintenance over the years. The clay pipe protects a flow of water, while the trench is to be rennovated for proper terrace drainage.



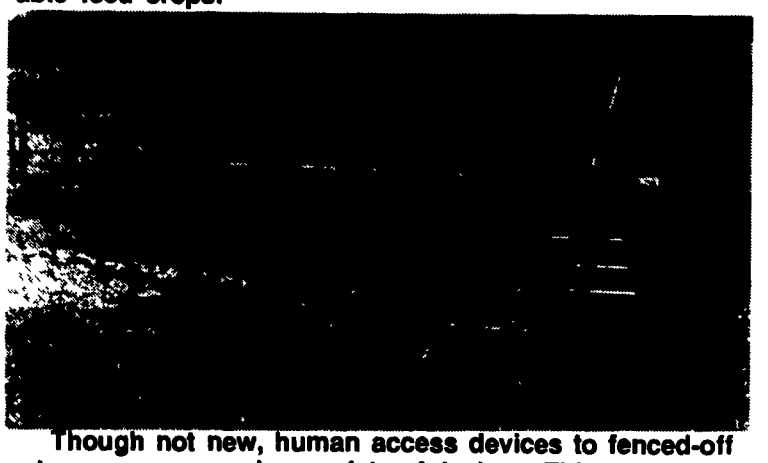
This waterway drains water diversions and is lined with large rock because of the steepness of the hill. On flatter ground a grass waterway would serve to protect against soil erosion.



This is the obvious portion of a restored wetland at Rockspring. The upper end is not shown, but it is about the same size and doesn't appear wet, although is feeds water into the open water area.

Standing on the edge of a storm water culvert drainage bowl — like a miniature retention dam — Wayne Ray describes aspects of the white PVC drain pipe.

A no-till wildlife plot demonstration area at Ag Progress Days shows that the same equipment for no-till livestock crops can be used to no-till with buckwheat, sorghum and other species which benefit wildlife. Such plots may help deter wildlife from going further into the open to eat valuable feed crops.



Though not new, human access devices to fenced-off streams can come in a variety of designs. This ladder is a fish commission design. Simple designs and more sophisticated designs exist.

Although there is no water running down this demonstration "stream," a vehicle and cattle crossing was constructed across the swale of this terraced field so that visitors to Ag Progress Days can see exactly what officials are describing.

All American Deadlines Near

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "Dairy cattle breeders won't want to miss the opportunity to exhibit their animals at the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, our premier dairy cattle exposition," said show manager Charles Itle. "The first entry deadline is August 21, 1992."

With six national show titles up for grabs and almost $100,000 in premiums, this is a show that breeders must include in their 1992 show schedule. Each year, more than 2,300 head of dairy cattle are paraded around the Large Arena in hopes of gaining not only first place, but the $1,000 supreme champion prize as well.

All entries must be submitted on forms provided by the All-American Dairy Show. Entries postmarked on or before August 21 will be accepted at $15 per animal. Entries postmarked after August 21 through Sept. 3 will be accepted at $25 per animal. All entries should include a production record.

Exhibitors in the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show wishing to show their animals in the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show open shows must submit their entries on or before August 21 and include a production record and the $15 entry fee.

For more information and complete entry forms please contact the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, Farm Show Complex, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408. The 29th Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show will be held Sept. 21-24 at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

the hill according to slope. There is a perforated pipe into which surface water drains to a submerged drain system.

A diversion is an open-ended terrace with a sod backside (and grass bottom on steeper slopes), which allows a slow, minimally erosive flow of surface water across a hill, perpendicular to the slope.

These devices are used for fields intended primarily for hay crops, which are then mowed.

Surface water flow is diverted to a grass waterway, or as in the case of the fields at Rockspring, a rock-lined waterway. Because of the steepness and volume of flow, the rocks were seen as superior to grasses in preventing a flow of water from removing the softer soil underneath.

The rocks also create a multitude of small pockets of slower water where heavier soil particals are deposited. Eventually, the deposited soils serve to foster plants, which further aids the protective strength of the waterway.

Dave Houser, representing the fish commission, gave a brief overview of stream crossings; human access devices, such as a baffle gate and fence ladders; and various fencing alternatives.

(Also as general advice with the stream crossings, House said that they may be installed in a stream after securing a DER General Permit No.6.)

Houser did not go into detail about fencing set-back distances, though generally, the smaller the water flow, the amount of streambank protection needed is proportionally larger, though not necessarily larger in acreage.

Under normal circumstances, the larger and wider the flow of water, the less of a swath of streambank is needed for protection because of the typical low slope and reduced affect on the stream which is getting a large amount of water from upstream sources.

This is so because the distinction between streambank and main watershed becomes less as a body of flowing water is followed upstream.

In effect, terraces and grass and rocklined waterways are somewhere between watershed and waterflow — there is no constant waterflow, but after a rain, water will flow as a body through these areas. In proportion to waterflow, the amount of streambank protection here is probably greatest.

Similarly, wetlands are part of a flowing body of water. They are part of the reserve areas which maintain a more constant year-round flow in the main stream.

Whether water is visible or not at all times of the year, when it rains, water collects in these areas and feeds slowly into either groundwater, streams, other standing bodies of water, or evaporates back into the atmospheric portion of the hydrologic cycle.

During the general tour, wetlands restoration was discussed briefly by Barry Isaacs, with the Department of Environmental Resources (DER).

Isaacs discussed the restored wetlands that was put in since last year to demonstrate what wetlands are.

This particular restoration was actually a creation, since the original soil was saturated (hydric) and was technically and practically a wetlands that had been drained with the use of tile fields etc.

The restoration included a stone seep area and a small, bullreed lined puddle of standing water.

The stone seep area was created by scooping out a shallow depression below a naturally wet area. Also, a drain from an uphill water runoff collection bowl empties there.

The water seeps further down hill to collect in the pond-like puddle.

He said the area of the standing water and rock seep is now wetter than it was, but the surrounding area is now drier than it was.

The value of wetlands was outlined by Isaacs; flood control, the water cleansing attributes, the wildlife habitat and the esthetic values, etc.

He said that while controversy exists over the definitions of wetlands for legal interpretations, there is a new pilot federal program which would pay landowners to restore wetlands and maintain them, similar to the Conservation Reserve Program, under which landowners are paid not to perform practices which will knowingly erode soil.

He said there has already been 30 restorations in Pennsylvania and there's a waiting list of at least 200 who want to restore wetlands on their properties.

Also, during the tour, Wayne Ray pointed out a large sinkhole adjacent to the tent city that is Ag Progress grounds proper.

Ray explained that sinkholes are the easiest natural access to groundwater and surface water carrying acids and other contaminents can not only contaminate those groundwaters, but expidite further disolving of the limestone rockbed which supports the topsoils, thereby encouraging further and more rapid development of other sinkholes.

These are concerns not just for the rural landowner, but also of concern to urban areas where surface water contamination by automobile fluids and carbon residues, lawn chemicals and pesticides are also a large problem.

On another part of the tour, almost as a second thought, Ray pointed out a small field that had been set up as a no-till wildlife planting.

This marginal field area was tilled with the same equipment used in the fields, he said, adding that landowners may be able to take wildlife pressure off of valuable crop fields by planting more preferable crops on the field edge.

He said that in the demonstration plot, sorghum, sudan grass and buckwheat was planted.

While the far free-stall building is full of cows, this new one is lined with commercial exhibits and families who came to the state Holstein picnic to socialize and to see the new 1,600-head free-stall with a double-40 milking parlor at Evergreen Farms.

Thousands Attend State Holstein Picnic

SEVEN SPRINGS (Huntingdon Co.) — Thousands of people attended the annual state Holstein picnic at the 2,500-acre Evergreen Farms here, socializing, eating, visiting the commercial exhibits and touring the largest automated dairy facility in the state.

A number of police and security people were needed to handle the flow of traffic which saw people from all over the state and elsewhere come to see the 1,600-cow, free-stall facility with its recycling aisle-flush system, computerized cow separaters and double-40 computerized milking parlor.

Owned by R. Wayne Harpster, the facility was recently completed and cows moved in. Harpster said he expects to have it running at full capacity by January.

The facility is one-of-a-kind in design, size, and siting. The Evergreen Farms has hosted the state picnic previously, but never have that many people attended. The picnic was combined with a general open house.

These gentlemen check out soymeal at Evergreen Farms during the state Holstein Picnic and open house of R. Wayne Harpster's new 1,600-head free-stall dairy facility.

Exotic Christmas Tree Pest Afoot

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture is alerting Christmas tree growers and nursery personnel of the presence of a small beetle that poses a threat to Christmas tree production in the commonwealth.

It was detected by federal and state agriculture personnel through surveys in Erie and Crawford counties. The pest had been discovered near Cleveland, Ohio in early July.

The bark beetle (Tomicus piniperda) is a native of Europe and Asia and feeds mainly on pines. When populations are high, fir, larch, and spruce are also attacked.

Adult beetles feed inside the shoots, killing the new growth. Each adult kills up to six shoots, resulting in shrubby, misshapen trees that are unsuitable for Christmas trees.

In China, drought-stressed trees have died as a result of attack by this beetle.

Federal and state officials are considering possible control measures and quarantines to limit the spread of this pest. Surveys are continuing in Pennsylvania, Ohio, and New York to determine the extent of its distribution in the United States.

Growers who suspect this pest may be causing tree damage may contact the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Entomology Laboratory at (717)787-5609.

DEAD SOW REMOVAL BECOMES ONE MAN JOB

The Sow Hearse has an efficient, hand-operated winch connected to a steel cable and pulley that enables one person to pull a sow from the floor onto the cart to transport to a disposal.

Tri-County Confinement Systems of Lebanon has introduced the Sow Hearse to remove dead sows from confinement stalls in swine systems.

The death of a sow in a stall results in a very difficult and unpleasant job for at least two people. With a Sow Hearse, the task is much simpler and can be accomplished by one person.

The Sow Hearse, made of solid steel rod, is a rubber-wheeled cart designed to negotiate the narrow aisles of many confinement barns. On its top is an efficient, hand-operated winch connected to a steel cable that rides on a nylon pulley. When the cable is looped around the sow and secured, she can be pulled easily from the floor of her stall onto the sloped bed of the Sow Hearse. The machine then functions as a cart to transport the dead animal to a disposal location.

Dimensions of the Sow Hearse are 22" wide x 24" long x 4'4" high.

TRI-COUNTY Sow Hearse Makes The Removal Of A Dead Sow From A Confinement Stall An Easy Job For One Person. Made Of Solid Steel, It Is A Durable Easy-To-Operate Machine... A Must For Today's Confinement System Operator!

Tour Explores Planning, Construction Of Streambank Crossing

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Methods to install and maintain different types of stream bank crossings were presented on special tours conducted this week during Ag Progress Days.

For as little as $412, complete 18-foot wide by 25-foot long stream crossings can be installed as a measure to stop deteroriation of stream banks.

The Soil Conservation Service (SCS) and other representatives spoke about the installation of a low-gradient stream crossing simulation, constructed in 1990 at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center.

At the time, the crossing was constructed out of a diversion ditch for several fields at the site.

GP6 Permit

Using the DER General Permit 6, a streambank crossing, using 14 tons of riprap (to make the outside form), 11 tons of #4 stone (to form the base), and 16 tons of #2B stone (to form the path) were used, according to David Houser, Pa. Fish and Game Commission.

"We did these with just a backhoe and a bunch of guys with shovels," said Pete Mader, Centre County Conservation District.

"As a result of this crossing, cattle, when they go to pasture, will not be causing nutrient problems in the stream," said Mader.

Mader said the slope is 5 to 1, which provides a nice, gentle grade. Houser said the stream crossing is less than 1% gradient.

To begin the slope, a farmer must contact SCS and obtain a copy of the GP6 guide, "Ag Crossings and Ramps." The GP6 has already been preapproved by the Fish Commission and the state. A farmer must fill out a one-page form (the permit), which asks for land ownership, stream name, location, and the type of crossing to be built.

Several types

There are several types of crossing which can be built using GP6, according to Houser. They include low and medium gradient (with wings). Three types of ramp structures can be built under GP6, including stone, timber (using ties), or stairstep timber and stone (an SCS design with large stairs that move cattle over a great distance — "or one cattle per stair," said Houser).

"You can't build a crossing without ramps," said Houser. "You have to have ramps to lead the animals in."

After a site is chosen, it must be excavated. Mader said that when the #4, the larger stone, is keyed in, it must not rise more than 12 inches above the original streambed. (Mader said the Fish Commission said that restriction is necessary so as not to impedge migration of fish.)

Pete Mader, Centre County Conservation District, spoke about the materials used in constructing this streambank crossing on Tuesday at Ag Progress Days.

In most parts of the state, streambeds are a hard pan with a stable stream bottom and stones aren't necessary. Many require only ramps. But in softer stream beds in other parts of the state, the entire stream crossing, with the different sized rock, is necessary.

Different types

Houser also said fencing, under GP6, is required. There are many different types of fencing available. The site showed 8-wire high tensile 14.5 gauge (non-electric) and a 2-strand hot and single strand (hot), along with droppers, both insulated and noninsulated.

The cost of all material on the site came to $412, including the rock and fencing material.

"We've built a lot of these here in Centre County," said Mader. "Ours have been running $800 to $1,000."

Mader said the farmer must decide on who will do the work (backhoe operators now charge about $50-$60 an hour) and where to obtain some of the materials. Some of the materials are SCS and ASCS cost-shared.

Cost of rock

Mader said that Centre County farmers also have access to several nearby quarries, so the cost of rock is less than in other parts of the state.

Both of the representatives said, once the crossing is up, yearly maintenance is required, either by raking or by spreading new #2 stone or making other adjustments.

"You have to realize, just like anything else, whether it's your house, your farm, your back, or whatever, you have to maintain it," said Houser. "This is no different."

David Houser, Pa. Fish and Game Commission, spoke about the methods used and cost of the streambank fencing demonstration project at Ag Progress Days.

Don Lindsey, SCS, talks about different watering systems during the watering systems demonstration at Ag Progress.

FARM MANAGEMENT

STEPS TO SOUND FINANCIAL PLANNING

Alan W. Strock
Farm Management Agent
Chester, Lancaster Counties

Financial planning is as important as it sounds! This is true for everyone over age 18 who has a bank account or owns property.

If you put off your financial planning, those who depend on you will probably have great difficulty when something drastic happens to you.

There are seven steps your family should do routinely to make your financial affairs run smoothly:

• Take care of important papers. Designate an area of your home as "personal business corner" complete with a filing system. Include all farm bills and receipts, record books, farm analysis, depreciation and inventory statements, listing or videotape of all personal property, legal and personal financial records: credit, education and employment, family certificates, final instructions, health, housing, investments, insurance policies, tax statements, vehicle information and personal property warranties.

• Net worth. Prepare a current net worth statement and revise it yearly. Around January 1 is a good time to revise it. List your personal and farm assets at current fair market value. Assets may include cash, stock, bonds, investments, accounts receivables, crop inventories, animals, machinery, vehicles, real estate, art, antiques, and cash value on life insurance and others. List your liabilities — everything you owe. Liabilities include accounts payable, notes payable, financial leases, installment loans, credit card debt, and others. Your net worth is your assets minus your liabilities. The important thing is to have a clear picture of your financial position at one particular time and to have the ability to track your financial progress through the years.

• Mission statement. Set your family's financial goals. Develop a mission statement that reflects what you want to accomplish. Let everyone in the family have a say, even children. If everyone believes they're part of the decision, you'll have more cooperation because they will have bought into the plan. The personal and farm mission statement should state the things that are important to you. The statement should reflect your personal values, philosophy, living standard expectations, working environment, and the farm's position in industry and the community.

• Develop a budget. Design a master plan for saving and spending so you can reach your financial goals. Check your receipts, checks, and bills to track your spending habbits. Develop a monthly budget that enables you to limit spending on consumer items such as clothing, furniture, vacations, education, travel, and others. Estimate your income and develop realistic short- and long-term plans which include your most important financial goals. Remember to set aside something for emergencies and "irregular" farm and personal expenses.

• Credit history. Make sure you have a good credit record so you can borrow money when you really need it. Your credit record and borrowing power is built on your personal characteristics and reputation, financial resources, ability to repay, past repayment history, and the loan conditions. Your credit history or record is only established as you repay loans, but don't be tempted to charge or borrow more that you can comfortably repay. Committing future income means less flexibility and extra costs. Remember, credit is an expensive service in financial terms and can be expensive in human terms through the loss of self-esteem and personal aggravation and worry.

• Prepare a will. Everyone in the family who is over 18 and who owns property should prepare a separate will. Pennsylvania laws are very specific as to who gets what when a person dies "intestate" — without a will. Do not assume your family members will get what you think they should. Pennsylvania's intestate law will determine the exact distribution of your estate. Guardians for your minor children also need to be designated.

• Professional advice. Get profesional advice. Ask your family lawyer to help you with the legal affairs associated with money management. You can also call your county cooperative extension office for assistance.

Financial planning is a good way to reconsider your financial goals, to re-evaluate your farm and financial management, and, most importantly, to plan for your family's future. Your financial plan should also include how the farm will transfer to the next generation.

Remember, your financial planning is not someone else's responsibility. It's yours!

N.Y., N.J. Milk $12.93

ALBANY, N.Y. — Dairy farmers who supplied milk plants regulated under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders during June 1992 will be paid on the basis of a uniform price of $12.93 per hundredweight (27.8 cents per quart).

The price for the corresponding month last year was $11.04 per hundredweight.

Market Administrator Ronald C. Pearce also stated that the price was $12.36 in May 1992. The uniform price is a marketwide weighted average of the value of farm milk used for fluid and manufactured dairy products.

The seasonal incentive plan has been suspended for April-November 1992. The plan would have removed 40 cents per hundredweight from the dairy farmers' uniform price for June. The monies deducted, plus accrued interest, would have been returned in the August through November uniform price calculation.

A total of 12,185 dairy farmers supplied the New York-New Jersey Milk Marketing Area with 970,501,794 pounds of milk during June 1992. This was an increase of 3.9 percent (about 36 million pounds) from last year.

The gross value to dairy farmers for milk deliveries was $126,171,279.96. This included differentials required to be paid to dairy farmers but not premiums, deductions authorized by the farmer, or assessments.

Regulated milk dealers (handlers) used 356,795,589 pounds of milk for Class I, 36.8 percent of the total. This milk is used for fluid milk products such as homogenized, flavored, low test, and skim milks. For June 1992, handlers paid $13.88 per hundredweight (29.8 cents per quart) for Class I milk compared with $12.46 a year ago.

Handlers used 169,032,782 pounds of milk for Class II products, 17.4 percent of the total. Class II products include fluid cream, eggnog, cottage cheese, ice cream, and yogurt. Handlers paid $13.07 per hundredweight for this milk.

STAYING COMPETITIVE THROUGH EXCELLENT MANAGEMENT

John H. Schwartz
Lancaster County
Extension Director

The poultry industry is once again facing tough economic times. These price cycles are part of the free enterprise market system.

During low prices, the most efficient survive while the high-cost producers are forced to either become better or stop producing. During these lean times, the best managers make adjustments and pay closer attention to details.

The owner taking a more active role in management is the key to surviving.

The following are some areas you may want to evaluate on your farm.

First, talk with your lender and discuss your financial options. Explore the economics of refinancing your loan to take advantage of lower interest rates. Discuss your ability to make loan payments and work out adjustments. Remember, always keep your interest payments current.

Next, look around your poultry operation and identify items you may do now that will reduce costs. Start with water leaks. Water leaks cause wet manure, ammonia production, flies, and increase ventilation requirements.

Next, launch the war on rodents. I do not believe there is a chicken house that does not have rodents. That means every poultry farmer needs a rodent control program. This program requires a minimum of weekly inspections. Rodents eat and waste feed, carry disease, and cause damage to equipment and buildings.

Set a goal of reducing cracks and dirty eggs. This means monitoring and adjusting egg gathering equipment and adjusting the speed of the egg packer to take into account number of eggs being produced and egg shell quality.

Walk through your poultry house and listen to your birds. Hear how they feel. This will help you identify waterers not working, feeding problems, and air quality problems.

Another area to examine closely is your ventilation system. Air inlets need to be checked and cleaned as needed. Fan louvers need to be cleaned on a weekly basis. By having partially opened louvers, you are reducing the amount air the fan is moving. This increases your cost for moving air while decreasing air quality in the chicken house.

Be present and walk through the house with your service person. Take notes and act on recommendations made. Your service person sees many different situations. He can you tell what is working for other producers. Also, he brings a fresh pair of eyes that often can spot things you are overlooking.

Finally, keep your house and equipment repaired and up to date. By properly maintaining your house and equipment, you are increasing its lifespan and thus your profits.

One major key to profits is the number of useful years you can achieve from your investment after the bank is paid. Remember, whatever rate of interest you paid to the bank now becomes your minimum rate for return on investment.

Whether you will be in the poultry industry five years from now will depend on how good of a manager you are now.

Tough times require tough management. This means staying home more and paying attention to details.

are to be notified by the end of September if their job is on the hit list.

There are currently 220 hourly and 45 salaried people working at Mountville, according to the newspaper report. The plant is 50 years old.

Although the company has been laying off employees ever since it was purchased a couple years ago by the Italian Fiat company, officials reportedly said that an overly optimistic outlook had sustained employee levels for some time, but that company management now realizes that the market for its products has permanently diminshed.

Other Ford New Holland operations are also being shut down as company heads said that this is a rare opportunity to restructure the plant for future efficiency.

Company officials said that the New Holland plant will remain open as a sales and production site.

A short meeting of this year's Dairy of Distinction winners from across Pennsylvania on Wednesday afternoon at Ag Progress Days was followed by this group photo. More than 50 new farms were designated. Recognition of well-kept farms continues in the farm beautification program. Anyone who has a nice looking dairy farm and would like to participate next year may call Paul Nichols, program secretary for more information. The phone number is: (717) 283-2204.

Thomas: We May Become Complacent

to be solved along the lines of the great revolution. New procedures brought about by agricultural research should be viewed as the leading edge to solve one of the world's most significant problems. We should be thankful for the abundance agriculture has brought us.

"One of the real benefits of Ag Progress Days is the opportunity it gives us to reflect on the tremendous progress we have made in agricultural research and production," Thomas said.

Hood Addresses Alumni

While outlining the accomplishments of the College of Agricultural Sciences for the alumni association, Dean Lamartine Hood called the new ag sciences and industry building "absolutely superb" and noted the present construction of the new dairy research and education center and the new poultry sciences and education center.

Hood also said that extension education off campus continues to be challenging. The college is rapidly positioning to take advantage of the new satellite technology. A new up-link is in place that was acquired by participating with the Agricultural Satellite Corporation. Penn State was one of the first five institutions to be awarded the dedicated up-link. And now the work to get down-links in each county extension office is progressing.

Last year enrollment was up eight percent, and over the last four years it was up 20 percent. Four hundred internships are available.

Hood said economic cycles are just that: a cycle, and while the economy is in a deplorable situation, it will get better. And when it gets better, Hood said the college wants to be in a position to grow and expand.

"Although we are strapped for funds now, we have and continue to have an outstanding faculty and staff, a growing student body and a state that is supportive," Hood said. "I'm fairly certain that resources will be scarce for some time to come. But that will not keep us from doing what is most import in our college--searching for and achieving excellence in whatever we do. It will be a smaller college, but it will be stronger and more focused. And it will always be your college," Hood said.

South Central Championship Show Names Winners

BETH MILLER
Franklin Co. Correspondent

SHIPPENSBURG (Franklin Co.) — James and Nina Burdette sure proved they know their Holsteins during the South Central Pennsylvania Championship Show at the Shippensburg Fairgrounds.

Windy-Knoll View Valiant Paola, a 5-year-old owned by the Burdettes, was picked as grand champion and senior champion of the show, which featured nearly 150 animals and was judged by Richard Keene of Gilbertsville, N.Y.

The Burdettes accepted the grand champion trophy from the Pennsylvania Holstein Association.

They weren't finished winning, however.

The Burdettes next went to the winner's circle when their animal was judged best bred and owned by an exhibitor. That trophy also came from the Pennsylvania Holstein Association.

Then, the Burdettes went on to take best of three honors, the top spot in the produce of dam competition and the number one position in the dam and daughter event.

Reserve grand champion and reserve senior champion honors went to Penn-Gate Enhancer Flashie, a 4-year-old owned by Penn Gate Farms. The reserve champion trophy was sponsored by the Lancaster County Holstein Club.

Penn Gate Farms also took honors as the premier breeder and exhibitor at the show.

The youth grand champion and youth senior champion victory went to Tower Vue Mark Dolly, a junior 3-year-old owned by Craig H. Walton. The grand champion trophy there was sponsored by The Cattle Exchange.

Cove Run Reliance Gloria, a 5-year-old owned by Ty W. Christman, captured the youth reserve grand champion and youth reserve senior champion honors. The reserve grand champion trophy was sponsored by Cornerstone Genetics.

In the junior competition, the junior champion was Windy-Knoll-View Vintage Liz, a summer yearling owned by Jim Burdette, Chris Hill and Greg Wilcom. That trophy came from the Pennsylvania Holstein Association.

Reserve junior champion was Fountain Farm Lead Emblem, a spring yearling owned by Elizabeth L. Walton. The trophy for that event came from Ju-Vindale Holsteins.

Walton and her animal also won youth junior champion honors and a trophy from Stonehurst Farm.

Youth reserve junior champion was Windy-Knoll-View Pizzaz-ET, a fall yearling owned by Justin Burdette. Burdette received his trophy from Em-Tran Inc.

Windy-Knoll-View also finished first in the junior best of three competition.

Poultry Queen Anticipates 'Eggciting' Reign

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

CHRISTIANA (Lancaster Co.) — Melissa Dawn Yoder is no novice when it comes to performing the duties of a poultry queen.

She's adept at making omelets, riding in floats, and working with chickens — thanks to her sister, Gwen, who was the 1984 Lancaster County Poulty Queen.

Although Melissa was only nine, she remembers the awe of accompanying her sister who rode on the Poultry Association's float.

"My sister sat inside a big egg, which had chicks on each side of it. I was one of the chicks," Melissa said.

Riding in a parade was so much fun, that Melissa resolved that she, too, would some day wear the crown.

She had to wait nine years, but when she turned 17 years old in August, Melissa was eligible to compete for the poultry queen crown. That meant that she needed to compete at a pageant with two other contestants.

To Melissa's surprise, she won — not the county — but the state title — Pennsylvania Poultry Queen.

That means she will travel across the state promoting the use of poultry and eggs. It's a job she thinks will be fun since she herself loves to make eggs and eat chicken.

While some people are skeptical of the cholesterol in eggs, Melissa said that it isn't an issue among her own age group. "Kids my age aren't worried about cholesterol or heart disease. If they like something, they eat it and don't think anything about it."

Melissa lives with her parents, Vernon and Barbara, on a Christiana farm that her father bought from his father in 1967. When Vernon purchased the farm, it was a dairy, since he preferred chickens and steers, he sold the dairy and built a chicken house for layers. The Yoders own three farms in the area with a combined acreage of 150. They raise corn, alfalfa, barley, and soybeans. Each year they feed out 135 steers and several hundred pigs.

When Melissa was nine years old, it became her daily chore to join her parents and sister, Gwen, and brother, Randy, in gathering eggs by hand three times a day. After 22 years, the poultry equipment was outdated. Rather than replace the equipment, Vernon decided to rip it out and switch the chicken house to a broiler operation.

The Yoders now contract 20,000 broilers with Pennfield Corporation.

"Broilers are a lot less work than layers but I kind of miss gathering eggs," Vernon said. In 1988, he won the top award for the best dozen eggs in the Farmers Class at the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Because the broilers are contracted, Vernon misses being independent as he was when he had layers. He said, "But the biggest disadvantage is that the kids don't have that daily responsibility."

Melissa agreed. "Actually I used to be more wide awake after an hour of gathering eggs than I am now when I leave for school. It's even harder to get ready for school on time than it was then."

Since Melissa no longer has eggs to gather, she works part time in the deli department of Yoder's Country Market, owned by her uncle.

Her expertise as a pianist for more than 10 years enables her to teach piano to children. Melissa also enjoys singing alto in the Campus Chorale, a musical group from Lancaster Mennonite High where she is a senior.

"I try not to keep myself too busy with school activities because I prefer to concentrate on school work, piano lessons, and recitals," Melissa said.

She also is president of her church (Maple Grove Mennonite) youth group.

Although after high school graduation plans are uncertain, Melissa prefers to get married and raise a family before going to college to become an elementary music teacher.

Because her mother works three days a week at the Old Country Store in Intercourse, Melissa usually takes charge of the cooking on those days. Her favorite foods to prepare are macaroni and cheese from scratch, pizza, and eggs. "We eat more eggs for dinner than for breakfast," she said.

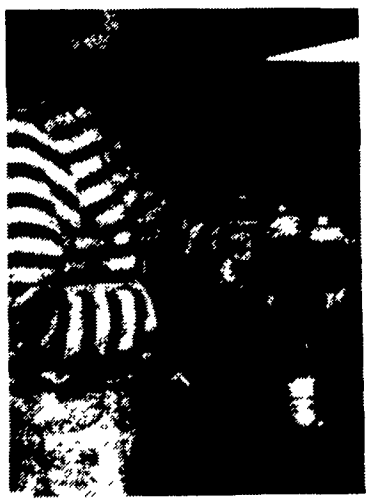
Melissa can make a perfect omelet. She offers these hints for making omelets:

Use an omelet pan.

Chop onions and peppers and saute in butter or margarine. Use a wire whisk to stir together 4 eggs, salt, pepper, and 3 tablespoons milk. Pour into pan. Pull back egg edges while egg is cooking on medium high to medium low heat. When the egg is almost set, cover with plenty of grated cheese (any kind may be used but Melissa prefers sharp cheddar). Close the pan and let set a few seconds until cheese melts. Serve.

Here is another of Melissa's favorite egg recipes.

To make a perfect omelet, combine 4 eggs, salt, pepper, and 3 tablespoons milk in a bowl.



Saute chopped peppers and onions in an omelet pan and pour the egg mixture on top.

When the egg mixture is almost set, cover with cheese and close the lid, which flips the omelet, let set a few seconds until the cheese melts.

Melissa holds one of the chicks from the 20,000 broilers raised on the family farm.

FABULOUS HAM AND CHEESE SOUFFLE

16 pieces white bread, cut off crusts and cube
1 pound cubed ham
1 pound sharp cheddar cheese, grated
1½ cups Swiss cheese, cut into small pieces
6 eggs
3 cups milk
½ teaspoon onion salt
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
3 cups crushed corn flakes
½ cup butter, melted

Grease 9x13-inch pan. Spread half of bread cubes evenly in dish; add the ham and both cheeses; cover with remaining bread cubes.

Mix eggs, milk, onions, salt and mustard. Pour evenly over bread cubes and refrigerate overnight.

Combine corn flakes and butter for topping. Bake at 375 degrees for 40 minutes.

Homestead Notes

Have You Heard?

By Doris Thomas
Lancaster Extension Home Economist

Kindergarten Is A Big Step

One way to prepare your child — and yourself — for that momentous first day of kindergarten is by thinking of yourself as a bridge. Starting kindergarten is one of the biggest steps a child will take; it's a rite of passage. You are what is familiar, you are the strong person who has always been there. By accompanying the child into this new experience, then gradually letting go, you can be a bridge from the familiar security of the family to the independent world of school.

You can begin this process of supporting your child's gradual independence now, by sending him the message that you trust him. When children are given appropriate freedom and responsibility, they feel trusted. Feeling trusted empowers them to feel competent and confident to handle new situations.

You can send this empowering message by doing the following:

* Encourage your child to spend more time with friends, even sleeping over at a friend's house if you think the child is ready.

* Assign a few simple chores that children are capable of doing such as setting the table and folding the laundry. Tell them you are proud of how well they do these things.

* Encourage children to feel responsible for their own belongings: hanging up their coats, putting away their pajamas, cleaning up their toys, and the like. This habit is particularly important because kindergartners will get praise from their teacher if they are able to keep track of their own things.

* Children feel good when they know they can take care of themselves. Give them more freedom to choose their own clothing, get themselves dressed, brush their hair and teeth, and handle other grooming activities. Help a child practice zipping a jacket and getting a backpack on and off. The more a child can do alone on busy school mornings the better for child and parent alike.

* Rehearse school-related activities. One of the biggest stumbling blocks to kindergartners is managing a lunch box and thermos. Many cannot unwrap their sandwiches or take a lid off a yogurt container. So buy the lunch box ahead of time and take a few lunch box picnics in your backyard. Help your child practice opening and closing the lunch box, getting the thermos lid off, pouring a drink.

* Give your child opportunities to recognize his name in print. This will give him another step toward independence. The ability to identify their names over a coathook enables them to find their special places in the classroom by themselves.

Giving a child more freedom and responsibility also will help you make the transition to seeing your child as more self-sufficient. And transition it is. Parents change too when their children go off to school; their lives are passing.

With each little step toward independence that a child accomplishes, parents gain the freedom to take some new steps of their own. Moving from a caretaker role to one of less responsibility for the child can be scary and elating at the same time.

Sharing these mixed feelings with other adults, not with the child, can help parents to sort them out. Then a celebration is in order.

Give yourself credit for the fact that you have raised this child for five years and now he or she is competent to go off to school. A treat — whether it be coffee with the other parents at the bus stop or a bit of quiet time for yourself — is an acknowledgement that you too are embarking on a new stage of life.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

With each slice of the sharp paring knife, fat ivory-colored chunks curl off into the big plastic bowl balanced between my knees.

After a half-hour or so of slicing, the container holds sufficient material to fill a dozen plastic freezer boxes for tasty winter eating. My mouth waters, knowing that the lunch just ahead will center on a big platter of his favorite August food. And to think that there are folks who won't touch this tasty, tender treat.

White sweet corn.

Only in recent years have I come to notice how adamant some corn lovers are about what color kernels they munch. The best color of corn seems to stir up as much debate as the method of consumption - whether to nibble one's way straight across the rows or around the ear.

Yellow sweet corn is what our family always raised in our large garden. When I asked Mom why, she recalled that the probable reasons was yellow corn's earlier maturity.

Then somewhere in the early years of our marriage - and I don't remember when, why or how - we planted a patch of Silver Queen corn. It was love at first bite.

Silver Queen has been our variety every since. But we still like yellow corn, too. And, after running a very loose, highly-unscientific poll recently among corn-loving friends, it seems we white corn enthusiasts are in the minority.

Why? One friend believes yellow corn has a more buttery taste. Another - a large-volume freezer of corn each year - feels that the silk is more easily removed from yellow than from white corn. Mom and I share the opinion that white corn is sweeter; a bagful of early yellow shared by a close friend, however, was as sweet and tasty as you could ever want sweet corn to be.

Perhaps, it's just what we get accustomed to in our minds.

For many years, I faithfully grew purple string beans, which trun green after a minute or two in boiling water. It seemed the beetles bothered them less than regular green beans. Besides, purple beans were fun and never failed to be a conversation starter with folks who had never seen them.

Mid-summer last year, the only bean seeds available at the local garden center were of the Roma variety. What the heck, I figured, how different could they be?

Plenty different, it turns out. The Roma bean is flat and about twice as wide as a regular roundish string bean, so that one bean is equal to probably two of some other varieties. They yield more volume for the same amount of space and picking time, plus their flavor is delicious.

And so far, no beetles. In fact, the row that yielded oodles of beans during July is bearing a second crop. Had I known they would do that, the late planting of beans that went in behind the onions would have stayed in the seed packet. Beans, anyone?

And Rutgers tomato has been my backbone canning variety for numerous years, fairly high in acid for preserving use, and one that has never failed in our garden.

"Some of these tomatoes are so firm and round and solid," I marveled to The Farmer some days ago, trying to figure if the cool weather was having some effect on my usual favorite standbys.

Eventually the "light bulb" flashed on in the brain; I remembered buying a pack of a Heinz canning variety at the Agway store when no Rutgers seed was available. Obviously, some of us gardeners need a sort of kick in the pants to get out of our variety ruts and try something new.

I think I've decided which corn is best.

Whatever happens to be fresh, young, tender, buttered - and ready to eat.

Mulch Mistakes

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Two common mistakes in applying mulch results in costly errors. Applying mulch too deeply and mounding mulch up against tree and shrub trunks not only wastes mulch but also puts the plants in danger of root suffocation and bark decay.

Most mulches should only be 2 to 4 inches deep. Use the low end of the scale on clay soils and the higher range for sandy soils. Excess mulch smothers the roots by reducing the gas exchange between the soil and air. Deep layers of mulch may absorb all water applied from light rains and hold it well above the root system.

If you add a new layer of mulch each year to retain color and texture, be sure to remove some of the old mulch and put it in a vegetable garden in another location.

Dealing With Loss of Income

Many rural workers are faced with losing income at the end of summer as seasonal work and summer child care ends. This means that families will be facing a money crunch just when demands kick in for fall school expenses.

Any family, whether it's facing a job termination or not, should begin to build a "safety fund" for those unexpected money needs. The rule of thumb used to be that each family should have in savings the amount equal to three months of income. That amount could then be used to carry a family over until unemployment kicked in and the worker found another job.

Financial management experts are now suggesting that the safety fund should be six months worth of income or at least six months worth of expense. Because in this slow economy, adults are finding it more difficult to find a new job. It is not unheard of to look for six months, and many times when a new job is located, the pay is not as high as in the previous position.

For farm families, income is much less predictable than the weekly paycheck, so this safety net is even more important for you.

Having three months' income saved is nearly unimaginable for most young couples. Unimaginable, yes. Impossible, no. The best way to plan for your family's rainy days is to begin putting a set amount in a separate account every time you get paid. It is beeter to put $10 in on a regular basis than to hope that several month. down the road you will drop $50. Something always comes up, and the $50 is usually spent.

People also save by putting their "car payment" into savings after they finish paying the loan. If you are paying regular mortgage payments, check the equity you've accumulated. Many people pay mortgage insurance along with principle, but after you have paid around 20 percent of the loan, you are no longer required to continue the insurance. This money can then be added to savings instead.

These ideas are fine for people who haven't lost their jobs. But if you know your work will end, do serious planning now. It is critical for families to have major medical coverage. Don't cut this area of your budget when the income stops.

Contact creditors and ask if you can renegotiate a payment schedule--either paying just the interest for several months or lengthening the loan term and reducing the amount of each payment. It is better to contact the bank in advance than to wait for a bill collector to come to your door. Most companies will work with you. They would rather have some money than no money.

Find out if you are eligible for unemployment benefits.

Today, talk with your family about the temporary changes that will need to be made while your income is low. You may decide to drastically cut the amount of money you spend on entertainment. Perhaps, you set a very low spending limit for holiday gifts. You could discontinue making long-distance phone calls except in cases of emergency.

All these are ways to adjust income. The two most easily adjusted areas in a family's budget are food and entertainment. But be sure not to short-change yourself on healthy meals. You all need to be in good health, so continue to get enough fruits, vegetables, grains, pastas, and meats.

Each time you go shopping, make a carefully planned shopping list. Plan meals and stick to the list of ingredients that you need for each meal.

Also make a promise to talk openly with your family throughout the process. You all need to stick together. Being informed, takes some of the fear out of the situation. It also allows them to think of ways to help.

For a lower fat version of vegetable antipasto, try this recipe from Debra Bryant, Wayne County Extension director. It's great for parties and an easy way to add flavor, color, and nutrition to party menus.

VEGETABLE ANTIPASTO

32 Servings

Vegetables (Group 1)
- ½ pound carrots
- 1 zucchini
- 1 small head cauliflower
- 1 small bunch broccoli
- 1 green pepper

Vegetables (Group 2)
- 6-ounces black olives, pitted and drained
- 6 ounces artichoke hearts, drained and quartered
- ½ pound fresh mushrooms, sliced lengthwise, not thin
- 1 pound cherry tomatoes
- 13 ounces medium-hot chili peppers, drained (optional)

Dressing:
- ½ cup chili sauce
- 1 tablespoon oil
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- ¼ cup wine vinegar
- 2 to 3 cloves garlic, minced
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 teaspoon oregano leaves
- 1 teaspoon dry basil leaves

Chop or slice Group 1 vegetables into attractive bite-sized pieces. Boil briefly until crisp-tender (5 minutes for the carrots, 2 minutes for the others). Drain. In a saucepan, combine dressing ingredients and bring to a boiling point. Pour over boiled and drained vegetables in a large bowl. Toss gently, cool to room temperature, drain well, and add Group II vegetables. Toss thoroughly and gently. Chill thoroughly. Drained dressing may also be used as a salad dressing. The antipasto may be made several days ahead, covered, and kept chilled. This recipe makes a very large amount.

"Microwave Magic"

By:
Carol Stark

Since many people are making attempts to limit their red meat consumption and include more fish in their diet, tuna is a natural and easy alternative. 2 cups chopped celery
2 cups croutons, divided
1 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup whole almonds or cashews
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shredded cheddar or Swiss cheese

In a 1 1/2 quart casserole mix together tuna, celery, 1 cup croutons, mayonnaise, almonds, onion, lemon juice and salt. Cover. Microwave at MEDIUM HIGH 9 to 11 minutes, stirring after 5 minutes, until hot.

Sprinkle with cheese and remaining 1 cup croutons, Microwave at MEDIUM HIGH 1 to 2 minutes, until cheese melts. Makes 6 servings.

COLORFUL CREAMED TUNA

2 tablespoons butter
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1 can (2 oz.) mushrooms
1 can (10 oz.) cream of celery soup
1 can (6 1/2 oz.) tuna, drained
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
2 tomatoes, cut in wedges

In a 2 qt. casserole place butter, onion and green pepper. Microwave at HIGH 2 to 3 minutes, stirring every minute.

Drain mushrooms, reserving 2 tablespoons juice. Add mushrooms and reserved juice to casserole along with soup, tuna, salt and pepper. Cover. Microwave at HIGH 7 to 9 minutes, stirring after 4 minutes. Add tomatoes. Cover. Microwave at HIGH 2 to 3 minutes more, until hot. Serve over rice. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

TUNA WEDGES

A tuna loaf, microwaved in a round shape. Garnish with tomato slices and sprinkle with grated cheese if desired.

2 eggs
1 1/2 cups cooked rice
6 green onions, finely chopped
2 cans (7 oz.) solid pack tuna
1/2 cup (1/4 lb.) butter
1/4 teaspoon thyme
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs

In a large mixing bowl beat eggs with fork. Add rice, onions and drained tuna. Mix well.

In a small glass bowl place butter. Microwave at HIGH 1 minute, until melted. Add to tuna along with thyme and crumbs. Mix well. Spread mixture evenly in lightly greased 9 inch pie plate. Cover with wax paper. Microwave at HIGH 9 to 11 minutes, rotating dish 1/2 turn after 5 minutes. Serve in wedges. Makes about 6 servings.

TUNA NOODLE CASSEROLE

1 package (8 oz.) fine egg noodles
3 tablespoons butter
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 cup finely chopped green onions
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup unsifted all purpose flour
1 1/2 cups milk
2 cans (7 oz. each) tuna, drained
1/3 cup cracker crumbs
2 tablespoons minced parsley
2 tablespoons melted butter

In a 3 qt. casserole place butter, garlic, onion, salt and pepper. Microwave at HIGH 2 to 3 minutes, stirring after 1 minute, until onion is softened. Stir in flour until smooth. Gradually stir in milk. Microwave at HIGH 4 to 6 minutes, until smooth and thickened. Gently stir tuna and noodles into sauce. Cover. Microwave at HIGH 15 to 17 minutes, stirring after 8 minutes, until hot. In a small bowl, mix together crumbs, parsley and butter. Sprinkle over casserole before serving. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Ravioli Dough

4 cups unsifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
5 eggs
2 tablespoons olive oil

In a large bowl, combine 3½ cups flour, salt, eggs, and oil. Stir until ingredients are combined into a stiff ball (there will be some loose particles). Turn out onto a board sprinkled with remaining flour. Knead, working in the loose particles). Turn out onto a board sprinkled with some of the remaining flour. Knead, working in the loose particles, 3 to 5 minutes; add flour as needed to keep dough from sticking. Form dough into a ball; wrap in a dampened towel and set aside for at least 30 minutes to rest.

Take half of dough, keep remaining dough wrapped in a dampened towel. Shape dough, a long rolling pin is helpful, into a large thin sheet. Drop filling by the teaspoonful about 1½ inches apart across lower edge of dough. Fold dough over filling to form little pillows. Cut apart and seal with a fork. You may also use a pasta machine to form the sheets of dough, then proceed as above.

Yields 8 to 10 servings.

1 cup bread crumbs
1 cup ricotta cheese
½ cup Romano cheese, grated
2 eggs, salt and pepper

Saute onion, garlic, parsley, and celery leaves. Add the meat and cook until it loses its color. Add spinach and cook until liquid has evaporated. Cool. Add bread crumbs, ricotta, grated cheese, eggs, and salt and pepper. Mix well. If it seems moist, add a bit more bread crumbs.

ANSWER — P.D. Hoover, East Prospect, wanted a recipe for beef marinade that makes beef really tender. Here is some information on marinades from the National Beef Council.

A marinade is a highly seasoned liquid used to impart flavor, and in some cases, tenderize less tender cuts of beef. Marinades usually consist of liquid ingredients such as fruit or vegetable juices, wine, water, and oil in combination with seasonings and herbs. Meat is allowed to soak in the marinade mixture for several hours or overnight to impart flavor and tenderize. To tenderize, a marinade must contain an acidic ingredient such as lemon juice, wine, vinegar, or yogurt; the acid penetrates meat fibers to help tenderize them.

Guidelines for Marinating

— Always marinate beef in refrigerator; never at room temperature.

— Allow ¼ to ½ cup marinade for each 1 to 2 pounds beef.

— Marinades may be cooked or uncooked. Cooked marinades add the most flavor and are preferred when marinating for more than 12 hours.

— Cooked marinades should be completely cooled before adding to beef.

— The tenderizing effect of a marinade is usually about ¼ inch from the cut surface of the meat.

— A heavy-duty plastic bag is convenient for marinating; a glass utility dish may also be used. Select dishes in which the beef will fit snugly but lie flat.

— Turn beef occasionally during marinating so that all sides are equally exposed to the marinade.

— For tenderization to take place, beef must be marinated at least 6 hours or as long overnight. Marinating longer than 24 hours causes the meat fibers on the surface to break down, resulting in a mushy texture.

— Remaining marinade may also be brushed on beef during grilling. Marinades which have a high sugar content, or contain other ingredients which might burn easily, should be brushed on only during the last 20 minutes of grilling.

Lemon-Basil Marinade

¼ cup lemon juice
½ cup water
1 tablespoon finely chopped fresh basil
1 teaspoon vegetable oil
½ teaspoon grated lemon peel
¼ teaspoon coarse ground black pepper

Combine all ingredients, stirring until well blended. Use to tenderize and flavor beef steaks or roasts. Makes about ½ cup.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

That I've been busy this summer is no secret. The weather has made everything grow including the weeds. Only when my husband decided to defrost one freezer did I see all of my 200 quarts of 1992 produce in one big box. There are still peaches, pears and plums to can plus lots of corn to freeze.

After the ice was removed from the freezer, it would not restart. However, we were lucky as eventually it did run again. There are not as many locker plants as there were forty years ago. Now it is so convenient to not have to drive miles every night, that frozen food has been processed, and put it in a locker box. Then in winter one must drive again and retrieve it for use.

Just now I have a little helper as our 20-month-old grandson has been spending his mornings with me. When I make applesauce, he puts each quarter section in a big kettle. And, when I slice cucumbers for bread and butter pickles, he is right there to help. Yesterday we picked strawberries from Allen's ever-bearing plants. They are a nice respite from blueberries and more blueberries. The netting we used protected the buds from the birds and the bushes, which we pick from a stepladder, are loaded with berries.

This year I did not get to see fireworks on the 4th of July. Lancaster's last event to celebrate its 250th birthday was a large display of fireworks held at Long's Park. So I persuaded Allen to go along, even though it was his bedtime, and we together with thousands of others enjoyed a wonderful display on a warm summer evening.

We do seem to get too bogged down with work to take advantage of such opportunities very often.

Kids Print Papers With Onions, Peppers, Celery

GAIL E. STROCK

BELLEVILLE (Mifflin Co.) — Ever print on paper with onions? Or peppers? How about celery?

Was your Christmas tree last year decorated with applesauce? With powdered cinnamon?

Did you ever think about raising bumblebees?

Kids attending the Mifflin County Youth Fair Children's Day on Tuesday, April 4, discovered how to do each one of these and more!

Older kids could visit the Bureau of Forestry table for "The Phantom of Fiddler Creek" activity book. Balloons with Smokey Bear's smiling face and pictures for coloring drew younger children to the Forestry table.

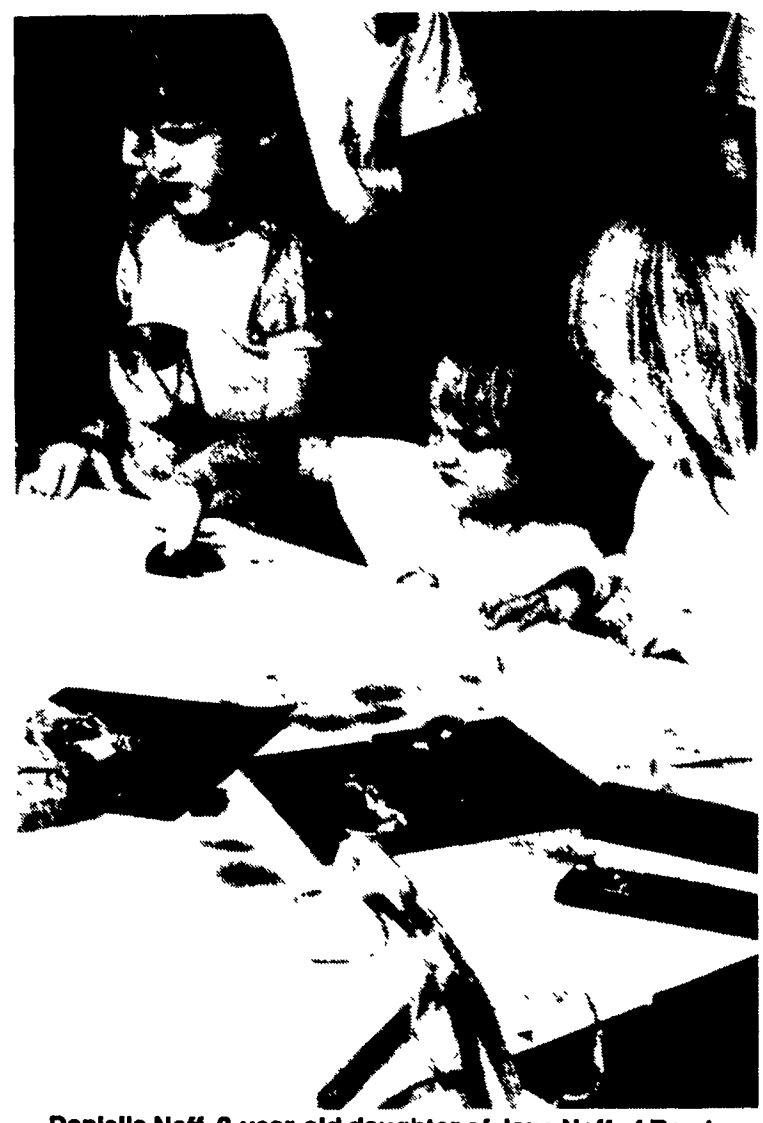
Esh's orchard offered Christmas tree ornaments made by mixing one cup of applesauce with one cup of cinnamon. Form a ball and roll out ¼ -inch thick. Cut with cookie cutters and set out to harden.

Kids could make pink pig faced puppets with stand-out snouts on brown paper lunch bags at the 4-H Pig Club table.

The ever popular petting pen with a baby pig, baby goat, a young calf, and a sheep drew a bit more hands on attention than the enclosed bee-filled hive. From a curious distance, kids young and old stared through the glass as the honeybees crawled over each other busy at whatever bees do in a hive.

Beekeeper Dyson Fisher was close by to explain what the bees were doing and to point out the queen bee. Fisher, a full-time beekeeper in partnership with his son Wade, belongs to four county beekeeping associations, the Eastern Regional Association, and the State Association. Fisher transports honeybees to Maine for pollinating wild blueberries, to Massachusetts to pollinate cranberries, and throughout Pennsylvania for pumpkin pollination, in addition to serving orchards. "We're now raising bumblebees. They pollinate blueberries in Maine when cooler weather (up to 15 degrees cooler) prevents honeybees from flying."

Samuel Lepley, son of Robert and Marie Lepley of Lewistown, chooses an ornament made from applesauce and cinnamon. They attended Children's Day because a friend told them how much fun it is.



Danielle Neff, 2-year-old daughter of Jane Neff of Reedsville, isn't too sure about this project. Her mother said she was more worried about having to eat the vegetables.

From a 4-H angle, the Olde Mill Pet and Garden table offered green and white paper 4-leaf clover fans. Kids took one white paper clover, placed it flat in a department store shirt box, and rolled a marble dripping with tempera paints around for bright stripes of color to decorate. This was glued to a green cloverleaf to make a fan with tongue depresser handles.

Things were shaking at the Dairy Promotion booth. With whipping cream filled baby jars in hand, kids shook and shook for about three minutes to make their own butter, served on saltines for a yummy snack.

While a Metz Hatchery egg incubated at one table, kids personalized windsocks with vegetable stamps at another. Onions, carrots, apples, potatoes, celery, and peppers, cut in half, were pressed onto different colored inkpads and then stamped onto white construction paper. Volunteers rolled the paper, attached crepe paper streamers and a yarn holder.

Lewistown Hospital's "The Family Place," a maternity and family care unit, gave kids a chance to make boo-boo bunnies. Nurses Darlene Kress and Ellen Corbin manned the booth "because it's fun!" They also supplied plastic bags with booklets about healthy eating and sibling fun.

For the rest of the day, kids enjoyed hay rides, contests, farm bingo, a kiddie tractor pull, and a special all-day amusement rides pass.

Four-leaf clover fans were part of the creative fun on Children's Day at the Mifflin County Youth Fair.

Boo-boo bunnies help soothe bumps, scrapes and bruises. Made of terrycloth, kids glued on eyes, a nose and a tail.

April Judy, the 6-year-old daughter of Russ and Barb Judy, makes a Suffolk sheep with real wool, black posterboard, and popsicle sticks.

Tioga County Crowns Fair Queen

C.J. HOUGHTALING
Tioga Co. Correspondent

WELLSBORO (Tioga Co.) — As platters of sweets paraded by, enthusiastic bidders jockeyed the prices to eight dollars and higher in hopes of taking home a layer cake or pie with one slice missing.

It was the first night of the Tioga County Fair, and midway through the Baked Goods Auction, attention turned to four lovely young ladies on stage.

Ranging in ages from 16 to 18 years old, the girls were vying for another kind of treat, the chance to reign as 1992 Tioga County Fair Queen.

Although the judging had taken place four days earlier at the Penn State Cooperative Extension Office in Wellsboro, each girl's biography was reviewed for the audience at the fairgrounds on an evening prior to the crowning.

As Mistress of Ceremonies Linda Yungwirth introduced the contestants to the audience, each contestant flashed nervous smiles in hopes of wearing the crown.

Stacey Graves is the 18-year-old daughter of Dennis and Christine Graves of Little Marsh. A 1992 graduate of Cowanesque Valley High School, she is involved in FFA and a member of the Tioga County Livestock 4-H Club.

Teresa McIlwain is the 18-year-old daughter of William and Diane McIlwain. Although her family's address is officially Canton, which lies in Bradford County, the McIlwain home actually stands several hundred yards on the other side of the border, in Tioga County. A 1992 graduate of Canton High School, she has been in 4-H for nine years. In the past, McIlwain has shown dairy animals at the fair and this year her showing includes sheep.

Sarah Lathrop is the 16-year-old daughter of Steve and Sharon Lathrop of Covington. A junior at Mansfield High School, she is an active member of 4-H. She has shown dairy animals at the fair and expanded to showing horses this year.

Becky Jo Brewer is the 18-year-old daughter of Richard and Patricia Brewer of Millerton. A senior at Mansfield High School, she is the FFA Chapter secretary and enjoys showing cattle at the fair.

The decision of who would reign was indeed a difficult one for the judges to make, Yungwirth said. To qualify, contestants had to be residents of Tioga County and actively involved in 4-H or FFA. Judging was based on poise, neatness, overall appearance, and personality, in addition to a written essay on "What the Tioga County Fair Means to Me," and an oral presentation on "Why We Should Attend the Tioga County Fair in 1992."

Using a point system for each category, the judges, two employees of the Wellsboro School District and a freelance writer, named the new queen by comparing total points, with each girl within just one or two digits of the others.

The winner, Teresa McIlwain, was crowned by 1991 Tioga County Fair Queen Becky Briggs. Lathrop was named runner-up.

Upon completion of the crowning and a brief photo session, the Baked Goods Auction resumed. For Miss McIlwain, however, nothing could beat the sweet taste of victory.

FORAGE CROPS

Research has repeatedly shown that tower silos are the key to providing maximum utilization of home grown feeds.

Consider the facts:

1. Tower silos consistently outperform bunker silos, plastic bags and big round bales in preserving the total digestible nutrients in forage crops.
2. Tower silos give the highest level of palatability of stored forage crops– the result is greater dry matter consumption and higher production.
3. Tower silos eliminate weather as a factor since harvesting can be done at the optimum stage of development.

Myers Tops York 4-H Swine Show

Joyce Bupp
York Correspondent

THOMASVILLE (York Co.) — Having the family's barn located on a hill proved to be a bonus for York County 4-H swine club member Bobbie Myers.

The 13-year-old Thomasville swine exhibitor took advantage of the hill to regularly exercise her pig that won grand champion honors at the county's swine roundup, held August 10 at Weikert's Buying Station.

Bobbi's champion, one of three pigs she had entered in the show, commanded top price as the kick-off animal in the roundup sale. Hatfield Packing Company buyer Tom Moyer made the winning bid of $2.60 per pound for the 250-pound pig.

A 4-H swine exhibitor for five years, this was Bobbi's first time to claim the champion banner. Her winning purebred Chester White was purchased at feeder size from Airville swine breeder Jim Parlett. She plans to invest in more pigs with part of the proceeds and bank the rest toward college. Bobbie is the daughter of Carol and Morrell Myers and an eighth-grade student at Spring Grove School District.

Sarah Kitzmiller claimed the reserve champion honors with her 230-pound Duroc. Second in the sale lineup, the winning red hog commanded a final bid of $2 per pound, from Leidy's Inc. buyer Arlie Cornbower.

The win was the first in the reserve champion show slot for the New Freedom 4-H'er, who has exhibited swine for six years. Sarah, 16, is a senior at Susquehannock High School.

Champion pair honors went to veteran swine showman David Myers, Wellsville. The winning pair weighed in at 200 and 205 pounds, and brought a $1.10 per pound winning bid from Hoke Mills feed company.

John Strawbridge, Windsor, claimed the light heavyweight reserve spot. Sale buyer was Hatfield Packing with a 55-cent per pound bid for the 235-pound pig.

Brodbecks 4-H'er Steve Wherley took reserve champion honors in both the mediumweight and lightweight classes. Hatfield Packing purchased the 215-pound mediumweight runnerup on a 60-cent bid. Buyers of the 210-pound reserve lightweight were Carl and Brenda Grubb, Sunset Hollow Farm.

Average price on the total 94 lots, including the champions, was $68.60; without the champions, the average was $64.78.

Jason Rankin, Abbottstown, claimed both senior and overall champion honors in both the fitting and showmanship classes. In the 13-16 age division, Luke Parrish, York, was the fitting winner, and Matt Sellers, Thomasville, won showmanship. Lancaster 4-H Fair: A Showy Success

Carol Hollingsworth, 11, pitches horseshoes during game competition at the Fair.

LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.) — It was show and tell at the Lancaster 4-H Fair held at the Lampeter Fair Grounds on August 12 to 14.

About 800 4-H'ers entered projects from llamas to basket weaving to show off the skills they developed in 4-H clubs this past year.

"I know I say this every year," Zoann Parker, county 4-H agent said, "but it is really true. The quality of projects here is better than ever and all the credit goes to the volunteer leaders who make this all possible."

It was the 10th annual fair held by 4-H'ers and the best attendance ever for the fun-filled three day event that includes horse rides, an exotic petting zoo, club presentations, livestock competition, and food sold by 4-H clubs.

Here is a picture viewpoint of the 4-H Fair, which now has a pemanent home at the Lampeter Fair Grounds.

Get MOOOvin' with Milk!

Choice seating for these buddies at the 4-H Fair's sheep competition was found on the fence, from left: John Tracy, 7; Ryan Donough, 8; Corby Zeigler, 7; and Derek Bollinger, 8.

Ten-year-old Michael McCordell of Holtwood examines the camel that was part of the petting zoo at the 4-H Fair in Lampeter.

Four-H Clubs such as the Solanco Community Club put together extensive displays such as this perfect score display. The lego-built village portrayed Clover Town, alias Solanco, with 19 volunteer leaders and 116 4-H members. From left, are some of the volunteers who built the village, Marilyn Holloway, 17; Melissa Holloway, 13; Kandi Mullins, 15; and Kim McLaughlin, 14.

After five years in 4-H, 12-year-old Judy Geisinger from Gordonville entered numerous projects in the 4-H Fair competition. "I like the opportunity to see everyone's projects," Judy said. She won a gold ribbon for a dress, basket, scrapbook, and cross stitch picture that she made.

Four-H success is backed with plenty of family involvement as evidence by this loyal group, from left: Corby Zeigler, 7; Joellen Donough, 4; Jessica Stoltfus, 11; Regina Landis, 12; Irene Stoltzfus, E-town; Wendall, Dottie, and Abe Landis, Manheim.

Ten-year-old Joanna Burman, Gap, shows off the tote bag she entered in the 4-H Fair. The best part about the Fair, according to Joanna is "getting together with all the other girls."

Brother, Sister Top 4-H Fair Sheep Show

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.) — Move over Lyndon Reiff, it's your sister's turn to shine.

That was the message 14-year-old Lisa gave her brother during the 4-H sheep show competition held at Lampeter Fairgrounds on August 13.

Showmanship champion 16-year-old Wendall Landis pampers his flock during the 4-H Fair held in Lampeter.

Lyndon Reiff shows the reserve grand champion market lamb, which sold for $2 per pound to Mary Wagner, loan officer for Keystone Farm Credit.

Last year, Lyndon took the grand champion title, and the year before that, the reserve title during the 4-H Fair.

"Now, I'm back to reserve," said Lyndon, who jokedly added, "I still think I showed the better sheep."

The siblings pool their earnings and expenses toward raising a flock of Suffolks at their parents' place in Strasburg. Before each competition, they take turns choosing the ones they want to show. This time, Lyndon had first choice. "As usual, I'm the one who makes all the mistakes," said Lyndon who has taken second place to his sister in a few other competitions although this was her first major win at the 4-H Fair.

The 119-pound grand champion Suffolk cross, Donny, was originally purchased from Don Witt of Western Pennsylvania. During the 4-H sale, Lancaster Ford Tractor purchased the champion for $2.25 per pound. The reserve champion, at 125 pounds, was purchased by Keystone Farm Credit for $2 per pound.

Eighteen-year-old Lyndon remarked it was ironic that the reserve champion sheep was deathly sick three weeks ago.

The sheep had lost 40 pounds before an intestinal infection was diagnosed and treated. During the recuperation period, Lyndon fed the sheep a special diet two times a day and exercised it.

In showmanship, Lisa placed second, while top showmanship honors went to 16-year-old Wendall Landis, son of Abe and Dottie Landis of Manheim.

Judge for the competition was Keith Brian, Penn State, who

PREVENT PIGLET CRUSHING

BSM Model 90 Farrowing Crate

GALVANIZED!

Constructed from heavy gauge materials this crate is designed to reduce crushing, with sow comfort in mind. The bowed bottom bars makes for a comfortable 33" crate width when the sow lays down, yet the adjustable anti-crush bars eliminates the sow from carelessly dropping on the piglets.

This movement restriction does not hamper the sow as she lays down, or wants to stand up, as the bars slide up and out of her way.

Meet Juniata County Dairy Princess

PORT ROYAL (Juniata Co.) — Anita Ann Faulkner, 16-year-old daughter of James E. and A. Patricia Faulkner of RD 2 Port Royal is the Juniata County Dairy Princess. She was crowned on July 2, during the annual pageant sponsored by the Juniata County Holstein Association Club.

A junior at Juniata High School, she is active in the FFA and SADD programs.

Anita has two brothers, Jeff, 20, and Mark, 13, and two sisters Jada, 7, and Kallye, 17 months. Anita is a Brown Swiss and Jersey breeder with 5 animals of her own.

Anita has been an active member of the Milky Way Dairy 4-H Club for 8 years, president of the 4-H Cottentails, of which she has also been a member 8 years; and a member of the Spruce Hill 4-H Swine Club and newly established Nature, Wildlife, Forestry and Photography 4-H Club.

When not busy with farm chores on the family farm, she enjoys hatching African and Taulouse geese, taking care of her barn cats and collecting Unicorns and Xavier Roberts bears!

For the dairy princess pageant, Anita's skit consisted of "Bessie the Cow" (portrayed by Anita) who compared her healthy cow diet to the human diet of the six food groups... the most important - of course - milk.

Also competing for the crown was Leslie Michele Campbell, 17-year-old daughter of Donald J. and Nellie R. Campbell. Leslie's skit entitled "Mr. Milk" followed a T.V. news show format with "Mr. Milk" as the on-air guest.

Another contestant was Rebecca Ann Woodward, 17-year-old daughter of Verna Woodward and step-daughter of Zane Harshbarger. Becky's skit entitled "Bedtime Stories and Midnite Snacks" which involved her love of milk and her desire to tell others - including her family of fuzzy friends - about its natural goodness.

To schedule Anita for an appearance contact Pat Faulkner (booking chairperson) at (717) 527-2501.

Anita Ann Faulkner is crowned Juniata County Dairy Princess by her predecessor, Melissa Adamire.

Fair Holds Milk Auction

C.J. HOUGHTALING
Tioga Co. Correspondent

WELLSBORO (Tioga Co.) — When the final bid was place, a roar of applause rose from the crowd and Debbie Stevenson led her grand champion Gurnsey back to the barn. Stevenson had just sold one gallon of her cow's milk for $415 to Greco's Super Duper of Mansfield at the Tioga County Fair Milk Auction recently.

The auction preceeded the Junior Livestock Sale, which sold market animals to benefit the youngsters who raised them as 4-H of FFA projects. Unlike the Livestock Sale, however, the milk auction not only benefits the individuals who own the diary cows, but also their 4-H or FFA club chapters and the Tioga County Milk Auction Committee Fund. The Milk Auction dollars are divided 25 percent, 25 percent, and 50 percent, respectively.

The grand champion Brown Swiss at the Tioga County Fair Junior Dairy Show is owned by Rebecca Bechtel of Covington.

One of the key organizers of the Milk Auction, J. Craig Williams, dairy/agronomy agent at the Penn State Cooperative Extension Office in Wellsboro, explained the reason for the three-way split. "This way, (the proceeds) benefit all the kids in 4-H or FFA in the county."

The dollars targeted for the Committee Fund are used for dairy days, dairy tours, and workshops for the 4-H and FFA members.

One of the most successful of these events was Dairy Fun Day held in April. Activities for the day were divided into two parts: educational and fun.

The educational portion involved boothes sponsored by various organizations such as Sire Power and DHIA, which provided hands-on learning experiences such as looking at bull semen under a microscope and reviewing cow records. Dr. David Reese, of the Pine City Veterinary Clinic, was on hand to dissect a cow udder.

"Growing up on farms," said Williams, "these kids have heard terms related to the agriculture industry, but may not have ever seen them. We try to provide activities that will let them see, first-hand, what those terms mean."

In the afternoon, a square dance and a Dairy Breed Bowl, courtesy of Penn State Collegiate 4-H Club, provided entertainment.

Dairy Fun Day turned out to be so popular, in fact, that Williams said the committee is planning two during the coming year.

As with Stevensons' Jersey, other animals whose milk was sold at the milk auction were grand champions from the junior dairy shows at the fair.

The gallon of milk from the grand champion Holstein, owned by Olivia Courtney of Mansfield, went to Judson Agway of Columbia Crossroads for $180.

Check-R-Board Feeds of Knoxville purchased the gallon of milk from the grand champion Ayrshire, owned by Jeremy VanDergrift for $200.

At the Tioga County Fair's Junior Dairy Show, John Lathrop's Holstein was awarded champion, and Olivia Courtney's Holstein took reserve champion. Suzanne Jackson, Tioga County Dairy Princess, presented the ribbons and trophies.

gallon of milk brought $167.50 to owner Dawn Marie Patterson of Westfield. The purchaser was Pelton Trucking Company of Monroeton.

In lieu of milk from the grand champion Brown Swiss, which was dry, owner Becky Bechtel of Mainesburg provided a gallon jar filled with Hershey Kisses. Middlebury Co-Op purchased the jar for $202.50.

In addition to the milk, a basket containing cheese from Eastern in Wellsboro, Hershey Kisses from Greco's Super Duper, a hat from the American Dairy Association, and a Tioga County Dairy Promotion T-shirt were auctioned off for $100 to Pelton Trucking.

"The basked is our seed money," said Williams. "The money from that paid for our other expenses, such as painting logos on the milk jars."

Another lot for bid was the wool shawl made at the fair a few days earlier during a sheep-to-shawl demonstration. Marna MacKay, coordinator of the wool demonstration, was on hand to explain to the auction audience how the shawl was made. The buyer, Grater Pigs of Lawrenceville, paid $105 for the shawl.

The pasturized and homoginized milk representing the five grand champions was provided by Harold and Sherry Courtney of Farmer In the Dell in Mansfield.

Other Milk Auction Committee members were Jill Wood, Sherry Courtney, and Leora Robson.

Massey Ferguson Offers Warranty

RACINE, Wis. — Massey Ferguson Parts Operations unveiled Original Equipment Replacements™, a one-year parts warranty policy. This policy applies to all Massey Ferguson branded parts (except batteries) and brings all of the parts in line with the one-year warranties previously offered on Massey Ferguson engine and clutch parts.

According to Don McEntee, general marketing manager, the firm's decision to extend its part warranty is based on several factors.

"Our research shows that farm customers equate the Massey Ferguson name with quality wholegoods. We'd like to extend this impression to our genuine Massey Ferguson replacement parts. The one-year replacement parts warranty is a natural, since these parts feature manufacturing specifications equal to those of the originals," said McEntee.

"We're implementing the one-year warranty to demonstrate that our OER replacement parts can keep our customers' equipment running like new. Guaranteeing our new genuine replacement parts, the same way we do wholegoods, makes a strong quality statement.

"We want our customers to know that to protect their investment, they should choose the parts that fit, wear, and perform like the originals. Customers will soon begin seeing the OER warranty logo in their local dealerships and in national advertising. This should help remind them of our promise."

The firm's North American dealers received their first notification of the company's intent in the beginning of the year, and will soon receive complete merchandising kits for local use.

Massey Ferguson announces a new one-year warranty on branded parts.

The original equipment replacements warranty is comprehensive. It says that "Massey Ferguson will repair or replace, at its option, free of charge, any part proved defective in material or workmanship, or both, for a period of 12 months from the date of sale, or the balance of the unexpired warranty repair period applicable to the Massey Ferguson equipment into which the part is installed, whichever period is longer." (The latter phrasing applies to equipment, which is already sold with a warranty in excess of 12 months.)

In addition to this customer-oriented effort, Massey Ferguson also has a commitment to parts supply. Should a dealer not have a needed part in stock, he can get it, quickly, through use of the firm's nationwide network of computerized warehouses. Most emergency or "machine down" orders are shipped the same day they're ordered and delivered within 24 hours.

Case Celebrates 150 Years

RACINE, Wis — For most farmers today, the machine of choice to harvest their crops is the combine, a versatile piece of equipment which cuts the crop, then threshes — or separates — the grain from the stalk, all in one pass through the field.

A single operator using a Case International 1680 combine with a 30-foot grain platform can turn a 160-acre wheat field to separated grain in about 13 hours.

Harvest time was not so easy 150 years ago, when large teams of men and horses worked many weeks, often months, to reap a cash crop of wheat on an average homestead of 160 acres.

The pioneers who settled the Midwestern prairies in 1842 still used primitive planting and harvesting tools which required long hours of hand labor. Plows were pulled by teams of horses or

Saylor Named Associate Dean

NEWARK, Del. — Dr. William W. Saylor has been named the associate dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences and associate director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Delaware.

Most recently Saylor was associate professor and assistant chair of the department of animal science and agricultural biochemistry at the university. The Butler County, Pa., native joined the university in 1978 after earning a bachelor's degree in animal science and master's and doctorate degrees in animal nutrition at Penn State University.

One of Saylor's first duties as an assistant professor was to redesign an undergraduate course on animal feeds and feeding to include information on nutrition, metabolism and feed formulation. At the graduate level he developed a course on monogastric nutrition that integrates physiology, nutrition and biochemistry.

Saylor's early research investigated basic mineral metabolism in poultry. His applied research has all been in the area of poultry nutrition.

In the early 1980s, Saylor investigated a group of drugs called ionophores that are used to control parasitic organisms in poultry. Because drugs in this group interact with a number of essential minerals, such as sodium and potassium, some were suspected of causing depressed growth in birds.

Saylor studied the ways in which the drugs might affect the metabolism and requirements for these nutrients. As a result of this research, the poultry industry was able to find suitable dietary levels of drugs that would prevent disease but allow for optimal growth.

The interaction between nutrition and disease is a current focus of Saylor's research. As part of a college research team, Saylor is exploring the ability of birds to resist infection as a result of their nutritional status.

He is also studying ways to reduce the amount of phosphorus (an essential mineral) in broiler diets by adding the enzyme phytase to the feed. The goal of the research is to improve poultry phosphorus utilization while reducing the amount of the mineral excreted in manure, thereby reducing the pollution potential of the element.

"The college is fortunate to have talented people such as Dr. Saylor to take over leadership roles," said Dr. John Nye, dean of the college and director of the Experiment Station.

As associate director of the Experiment Station, Saylor will assist Dr. Nye in securing research funds and in implementing and facilitating collaborative research within and outside of the college.

"It's important to recognize the tremendous amount of high quality individual research in the college that will continue," said Saylor. "In addition, through the strength of collaboration, the college will be in a more competitive position to bring in extramural funding that will benefit the entire research team."

The Agricultural Experiment Station is part of the Cooperative State Research Service administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture through land-grant universities.

Case Celebrates

oxen. Seeds were sown by hand. Wheat was cut with a hand-held blade, and a man could cut only two to three acres a day.

Farm hands gathered the cut crop, took it to the barn to beat it with flails to knock the wheat from the stalk, and then winnowed, or separated, the gran from the straw and chaff by hand.

Several inventors developed machines that revolutionized farming methods and eased the farmer's task. One of these men, Jerome Increase Case, brought his vision and ingenuity to the heart of Midwestern farming in 1842 and founded a company that today helps American farmers grow enough grain to feed the world.

Threshers brought to Wisconsin

J.I. Case was born in 1819 on a farm in Williamstown, in the wilderness of upstate New York. It was not long before his pioneering spirit set him apart. In 1842, at the age of 23, he bought six "ground hog" threshing machines, an early invention that beat the grain and threw it out together with the straw and chaff. Young Case loaded the machines on a barge and headed west to Wisconsin territory, where wheat farming was starting to emerge. He eventually settled in the small town of Rochester, in the southeast part of the territory.

Young Case spent nearly two years redesigning the thresher so it would not only thresh grain but also separate the grain from the chaff. After successfully demonstrating his new invention, in 1844 Case moved his fledgling business to Racine, on the shores of Lake Michigan, where he began building his J.I. Case ground hog threshing machine.

By 1848, the year Wisconsin became a state, Case's business already grown to become Racine's largest industry and employer, a position it still holds today.

For the hard-working farmers, a Case thresher could greatly speed their grain production during the busy harvesting season, allowing them to handle 10 times more wheat per day than could the hand methods.

The cost of a Case threshing machine in 1848, complete with horsepower unit (a system of gears driven by horses), was between $290 and $325, and it could thresh 200 bushels of wheat a day.

Introduced First Steam Engine

Case continued to refine his threshers and develop new machines. In 1869, he introduced the first steam engine for agricultural use, to be followed by 36,000 more through the years. By 1876 the Case steam traction engine, able to move under its own power, won a gold medal at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia.

In 1878 another thresher design, the agitator, was introduced. It used vibration to separate the grain, the same principle used in modern combines today. Its increased efficiency and capacity, threshing 2,000 or more bushels of wheat per day, put Case thresher sales on the top of a highly competitive market. By this time, Case had become known as the "Threshing Machine King of the World."

As his company grew, Case continued to live by his founding principles and gave personal attention to both customers and machine production. In 1884, he traveled to a farm in Minnesota to personally repair a Case thresher. When he was unable to fix it, he doused the machine with kerosene and set it on fire. The amazed farmer received a new thresher within 24 hours, and the incident became legend.

The dedication of Case to his family, community, and business made him influential in many fields. He served as mayor of Racine for three terms and as Wisconsin state senator for two years. He aslo was prominent in banking and agricultural societies, and was one of the founders of the Wisconsin Academy of Science, Arts and Letters.

Success took care of itself

Before he died in 1891, Case saw his company become the largest manufacturer of steam engines in the world, with a growing business in South America and Europe.

Shortly after Case's death, a local publication printed a summary of the man, and wrote: "He did good work, he turned out a product the people wanted, he managed his own affairs well, and did right by his associates and his patrons. And success took care of itself."

Today, the company that J.I. Case founded is a leading worldwide manufacturer of agricultural and construction equipment. Still headquartered in Racine, Case has 24,000 employees world-wide and does business in more than 150 countries.

Participation Grows At Chester 4-H Dairy Roundup

KIMBERTON (Chester Co.) — The Chester County 4-H Dairy Roundup was held at the Kimberton Fair Grounds recently with four 4-H dairy clubs particiapting and 97 animals being shown, an increase of 14 over last year.

Thirty-five members showed their animals, including eight first year 4-Hers; 49 animals that received blue ribbons will be going to the Southeast 4-H District Show at Kutztown.

Benjamin Dum Jr, Holstein breeder and Penn State Judging Team graduate from Perry County, judged type for both the Ayrshire and Holstein shows.

Senior and grand champion Ayrshire honors went to Kevin Nolan, Cochranville with his senior 2-year-old cow, Dreamnol Johnny's Snow. Kelly Lynn Young captured reserve senior and reserve grand champion Ayrshire awards with a junior 2-year-old named Pure-Ayr A.J. Babykakes.

The Nolan family kept up their winning ways as Craig Nolan, Cochranville showed a fine spring yearling, Dreamnol Festival Glitter, that was selected as junior champion. He also had the reserve junior champion, Sycamore-Meade L.L. Olympic, a senior calf.

Shari Supplee, Glenmoore, had a sweep of all the championship ribbons in the Holstein show. Senior and grand champion Holstein awards went to her 3-year-old, SW-Lawn-View Banner Flurry. Her second 3-year-old in the class, SW-Lawn-View Camaro Inez was the reserve senior and reserve grand champion.

Ben Dum picked Shari's summer yearling heifer, SW-Lawn-View Midnight Kelly as his junior champion Holstein and a winter yearling, SW-Lawn-View Camaro Freedom, also exhibited by Shari Supplee, as his reserve junior champion.

Warren "Bud" Buckman III, dairyman and a 4-H alumni from Perkasie, Bucks County, judged type for the Guernseys and the Jerseys.

Leading a large, excellent quality Jersey show, for the second year in a row, was Tammy Yeager, Spring City with the senior and grand champion, Jesters Lucy of SSF, a 5-year-old cow.

Owen Bewley, West Chester, captured the reserve senior and reserve grand champion Jersey award with his Senior 2-year-old, Dandy Lola of SSF. Bewley also had the junior champion with a winter yearling, Patrick Joyce. Tarik Gaffney, a first year exhibitor from Downingtown, was reserve junior champion with Top-O-Hill Junos Taco, a winter calf.

In the Guernsey breed, Julie Sollenberger, Spring City took all the championship honors. Her junior 2-year-old, French Creek Fayette Daisy, was senior and grand champion. "Bud" Buckman, judge, chose Julie's fall yearling, Warwick Manor Fayette Audrey for junior and reserve grand champion and her winter yearling, French Creek Fayette Daisy, for reserve junior champion.

The showing and fitting contest, always a closely contested event, was judged by Harvey Stoltzfus, a Morgantown Holstein breeder and past Chester County 4-H leader, and Paul Bryan, Perkasie, a retired Bucks County extension agent.

Champion first year showman and fitting honors went to Tarik Gaffney, Downingtown.

Kristina Lee Donough, Chester Springs, was the reserve champion in both fitting and showing.

In the junior division, under 14 years old, Tammy Yeager, Spring City was named junior champion showman and fitter for the second year in a row, and Jody Hewitt, of Spring City took the reserve ribbon.

The senior division saw Owen Bewley, West Chester, win again in his last year in 4-H, and Kelly Young, West Grove, was close behind taking the second slot.

Both Stoltzfus and Bryan complemented the 4-H members on the excellent way they prepared and presented their animals in the show ring.

There was also a pre-4-H showing event for youngsters under 8 years old.

The show concluded with showmanship class of 4-H alumni, 4-H parents and 4-H leaders. There was considerable shoving and pushing between the contestants and a lot of heckling from the youth and the audience before Sharon Nolan narrowly edged out Mildred Seeds. This event will be back next year by popular demand.

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.

MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.

ON-FARM MIXING
A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that

- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

When Buying A NEW COMBINE

DON'T OVERLOOK THE CASE IH AXIAL FLOW ADVANTAGE

the single rotor

With the SINGLE AXIAL FLOW ROTOR you get:

1) INCREASED PRODUCTION by the ability to start combining earlier in the day, and to keep combining later into the night.
2) BETTER GRAIN QUALITY because the ROTOR'S threshing action is much gentler than a conventional combine's cylinder.
3) LESS MAINTENANCE because there is NO strawwalker system to repair.

DON'T OVERLOOK THE HOOBER SERVICE ADVANTAGE

HOOBER'S experienced service people

With HOOBER's experienced SERVICE PEOPLE you get:

1) Fulltime Combine mechanics who work on combines year round, not just when you have a problem.
2) PEOPLE WHO CARE about your problems and want to fix them fast. so that you can get back to the field.
3) RECONDITIONED COMPONENTS which are not for sale, but are strictly reserved for use by the SERVICE DEPARTMENT to insert in customers machines who have major component failures.

Fair Starts Aug. 25, Ends Aug. 29

Janelle Wivell, left, holds the halter of her grand champion Holstein, later judged supreme dairy cow and supreme youth animal of last year's Elizabethtown Fair. Ruby Bollinger holds the halter of her reserve grand champion Holstein.

Regina Landis' Hampshire ewe lamb, "Amber," was the grand champion star of the sheep show at last year's Elizabethtown Fair. At right is show judge, Dirk Wise.

M&M Mars Company bought this cow filled with the candy to the E-Town Fair last year.

Sarah Boyd sold her 234-pound grand champion hog for $2.40 per pound to Kenton Good, Hatfield Quality Meats, at last year's fair. E-Town Fair Queen Kelly Nolt holds the winning plaque.

MAKE SOLID BALES...

What makes our bales ideal for your operation? Start with the pickup. It reduces chafing because the low profile minimizes hay lift. It's mounted close to the ground so you gain good ground gauging and clean crop retrieval, too. A large feed opening lets you work in a variety of crops and field conditions. At the same time it's tolerant to crop moisture, large bunches of hay, or foreign objects in the windrow.

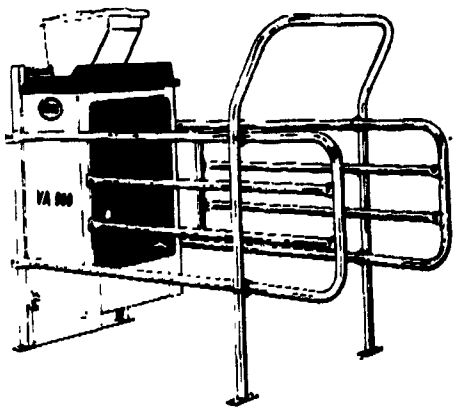
With this concentrate feeding system LESS MEANS MORE

Dairymen report a 7-8% increase in milk yield with 5% less concentrate input with the new VA 500.

Each cow's ration is fed automatically according to her individual lactation curve. Feeding for production means high producing cows get more. Every cow pays her way. The whole herd can be housed together and you don't need complicated computer support systems for operation.



Make your concentrate work harder.

FINALLY! AN OIL ADDITIVE THAT REALLY WORKS!

Increases HP® Less Wear Non Flammable
IXL Anti-friction Metal Conditioner
Efficiency is our Newest Resource

Science brings a new dimension to Anti-Friction
A metal conditioner product ahead of its time, IXL will give your equipment priceless protection. IXL gives protection far superior to just oil or lubricants. IXL is specifically designed to be used in: (NEW) and (USED) gasoline & diesel engines, compressors, automatic & manual transmissions, hydraulics, gear boxes, bearings of all types, turbos, pumps, and much more. IXL is a metal conditioner which treats all ferrous metals 3 to 5 microns deep, thereby making the metal surfaces harder, denser and smoother. These results are minimum metal wear, giving maximum engine and machine life. IXL reduces heat, friction, and wear, up to 75% without changing tolerances, reducing friction will release energy previously expended to overcome ordinary mechanical resistance. This energy is now available as a positive force, working to increase power, performance and fuel savings. IXL, also helps maintain and recondition seals and gaskets, by keeping these items pliable, firm, and flexible. It will help prevent leaks, IXL is not a lubricant fortifier, such as PTFE, Moly, or graphite. IXL is biodegradable, NON-TOXIC and environmentally safe. IXL is one of the highest quality products on the market today. IXL is satisfaction guaranteed or your money back.

IS YOUR SILO READY TO BE FILLED WITH CORN SILAGE?
PLEASE CHECK YOUR FILL PIPES AND DISTRIBUTORS NOW BEFORE FILLING SEASON
S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.
The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

THIS IS THE KIND OF SILO YOU NEED TO STORE YOUR VALUABLE FEEDS!

WE HAVE A SILO TO MEET ANY AND ALL OF YOUR STORAGE NEEDS!!!

When planning your forage programs, remember that your main objective is to "store the plant and remove it from storage in as good condition as possible." THE UPRIGHT SILO HAS NEVER BEEN EQUALLED IN ITS ABILITY TO DO THIS.

As herds become larger and labor is becoming more costly and scarce, there is more need to cut time requirements for all parts of the operation. The silo, or a combination of silos can be a key in reducing time spent harvesting, storing, and feeding your herd. "A properly managed upright silo is one of the best investments that a dairy farmer can make. "YOUR BEST CHOICE IS A POURED CONCRETE SILO.

CONSIDER THE MANY ADVANTAGES OF OUR POURED CONCRETE SOLLENBERGER SILOS.

HARVEY AND LOIS OCKER

Franklin County

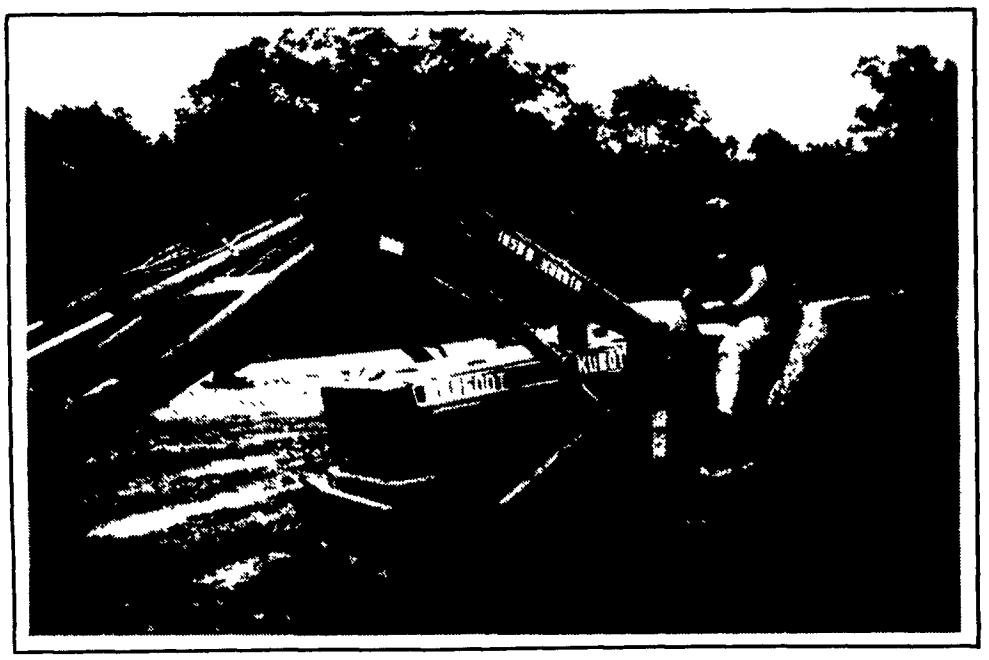
Harvey and Lois Ocker started milking cows over 27 years ago when they moved to a Franklin County farm located just outside of Greencastle, PA. Since that time they have gone from 18 to 65 cows and also seen their family grow by 10 children as well.

They currently farm about 285 acres and feed their cows corn silage and hay in the fall and winter. In the spring and summer they feed the cows hay and grass silage. All grain is top dressed in the barn at milking time according to milk production at a 3 to 1 milk to grain ratio.

Harvey Ocker going over his DHIA records with his son and Purina Farm Consultant Cliff Ocker.

Harvey started hearing about increased milk production stories from his son Cliff last July when his son started working at Detrich Elevator, a local Purina Dealership. In October of 1991 Harvey decided to try the Purina Program and listed below are some results he has seen since starting on Purina Test Cow and Maxi-Tech Complete feeds:

Cows	Milk RHA	% Fat	Lbs. Fat	% Protein	Lbs. Protein	% 1st Calf Heifers	Date
68.9	17,011	3.6	620	3.2	537	25	9-91
63.7	19,266	3.5	671	3.0	582	42	7-92



Harvey's son Orville dumping silage in the feeder

Here are some comments that Harvey had to share about what he has seen on the Purina Program:

- "As soon as I switched to Purina my cows started coming up in milk."
- "Grain consumption is good with the palatable high energy Test Cow and Maxi-Tech feeds."
- "Even with the extra milk I've been able to maintain my herd health."

Purina Mills and Detrich Elevator thank the Ocker's for their business and wish them continued success in the future.
